

In Monday's referendum vote on the City Housing Code:

- A YES vote calls for the code to be repealed.
- A NO vote supports the code.

There still has been no final count of the number trapped in the shaft, but the company's general manager, Juan Heitzler, said the figure was between 150 and 155. Company officials explained that some miners often worked extra shifts or borrowed others' equipment, making it impossible to know which men were in the mine Monday night.

Ferris lauded, sort of...

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House passed by a 59-54 vote Wednesday a compromise resolution arising from three weeks of fiery debate and parliamentary maneuvering over a racial disturbance at Ferris State College in Big Rapids last month. The action broke up a deadlock created by Rep. E. D. O'Brien, D-Detroit, who pressed for passage of his original motion commending the Ferris State president for actions which resulted in the arrest of about 260 Negro students. The compromise motion drafted by Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit, commends Ferris State president Victor Spathelf for asking the governor to send State Police to the campus. But it also applauds efforts "to more fully integrate all students into the life of the university" and "improve communications between races." The resolution also "pledges support to students of all races and administrators of good will in their efforts to provide a stable and constructive educational atmosphere."

The passage may break up a logjam created by the debate allowing the House to consider other matters. However, Ryan said he could not predict whether the House could move on when it returns from Easter recess April 14.

The House was expected to adjourn today.

He added, however, that if O'Brien continued to fight for his resolution that was limited to praising Spathelf, he would begin night sessions after the Easter recess.

"He's within his constitutional rights. There's nothing we can do if Republicans give him the support," Ryan said.

However, Republicans began to swing their votes from O'Brien toward the Ryan compromise, Wednesday after Rep. Alfred R. Horrigan, D-Flint, House police committee chairman, appealed for help.

Horrigan and J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, introduced the Ryan compromise.

The original O'Brien motion had been attacked by the 10-member black caucus in the House as racially offensive.

Vincent J. Petitpre, D-Wayne, chairman of the House Colleges and Universities Committee, said his investigation of the incident could not substantiate O'Brien's claims.

A group of Ferris State students told the Petitpre committee that racial antagonism and student-administration hostility were prime problems behind the disorders.

The Negro students were removed by State Police from the administration building and charged with trespassing. The action climaxed four days of racial disorders, in which some Negro students said they had been threatened by whites.

O'Brien also told the House Wednesday he hopes the Senate would rewrite the resolution as he originally phrased it.

$874 paid By county In lawsuit

A lawsuit against three employees of the County Sheriff's Department by a woman claiming she was jailed without reason has been settled for $874 according to Prosecuting Attorney William F. Delhey.

Delhey has informed the County Board of Supervisors that Mrs. Ruth Lacy agreed to accept the settlement evolving from an incident which occurred last April 5. The board then proceeded to approve the expenditure.

Mrs. Lacy's complaint stated that she went to County Jail with a friend who had been arrested for a driving offense.

According to Mrs. Lacy, she eventually was jailed and then threatened by two other inmates and the jail matron. She reported that she continued to attempt to attract attention and after "about 20 minutes," she was released from jail and told to leave the premises.

'The word' is pondered

Thinking carefully about the word she has just been given by West Junior High School teacher James Stout, is a school spelling winner who competed in the district spelling bee at the junior high yesterday. The winner of the bee was Denise Gayle Bradshaw, an 8th grade student at East Junior High. She won on the word "pugnacity". The runner-up was Carl Goble, an 8th grade student at Saline Junior High School. Denise will now go on to compete in the Metropolitan Detroit Spelling Bee on May 9.

King memorials slated

Two memorial services for the late Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., will be held tomorrow in Pease Auditorium at Eastern Michigan University.

The services will begin at 10 and 11 a.m.

Presiding will be Dr. Robert G. Zumwinkle, vice president of student affairs. He will read excerpts from speeches made by Mr. King.

Memorial statements will be made by Dr. Senger C. Buchanan, assoc. prof. in the department of speech and dramatic arts, and Richard Skutt, EMU student body president.

The University Choir will also present a program.

The Rev. S. L. Roberson, pastor of the Metropolitan Memorial Baptist Church, will give the prayer and benediction.

Milan egg hunt scheduled

MILAN — Approximately 350 youngsters are expected for the annual Easter Egg Hunt being held at Wilson Park on Saturday at 10 a.m.

The hunt is arranged by the Jaycees and the Jaycee Auxiliary. The Chamber of Commerce is furnishing the candy eggs, some of which will contain $1 certificates redeemable at local stores.

Museum to be closed

Because of Good Friday, the Ypsilanti Historical Museum will be closed tomorrow afternoon. It will be open as usual Saturday afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m.

Pancake benefit set for scouts

A pancake breakfast will be hosted Saturday morning by a group organizing an Explorer Scout post under the direction of the Church of Jesus Christ Latter Day Saints here.

The event will be at the Willow Run High School will not hold classes tomorrow. All other schools in the Willow Run School District will meet for half a day.

The high school staff is going to use tomorrow to prepare for a visit from the North Central Accreditation Association.

Ypsilanti and Lincoln schools will have a half day session on Good Friday.

Students attending St. John's schools and Van Buren schools will not have classes on Good Friday.

Eastern Michigan University and Washtenaw Community College will hold classes until noon tomorrow and not resume classes until Monday, April 14.

Realtors consider New listing plan

A multiple listing service for members of the Ypsilanti Board of Realtors was discussed at its monthly meeting yesterday and then referred to a special session expected to be held sometime later this month.

The service, similar to one known as Photo List and sponsored by a smaller group of local real estate firms, would allow members to share listings. The proposed program is to be discussed at an informal meeting "in about two weeks," according to a board spokesman, with action expected to be taken at the May meeting.

In other business yesterday, the board issued a statement supporting the City Housing Code, renewed its membership in the Industrial Development Corp. (IDC) and contributed $100 to Junior Achievement. Max A. Obermeyer, Sr. was also appointed chairman of a committee to work with IDC.

The board also discussed plans for observing National Realtors' Week from May 18 to 24, tabling action until the early May meeting.

Ypsilanti Township Sets spring cleaning

April 21-26 has been designated as "Clean Up Week" in Ypsilanti Township.

The township board has approved the hiring of a trucker to pick up such discarded items as old sofas and refrigerators which are cluttering the sides of township roads.

However Supervisor Fred H. Lunde said no car bodies will be picked up. Lunde said this is the third year of a program to get rid of things that people throw out in their spring cleaning.

Park Chairman Elected

A procurement analyst at the Fisher Body plant at Willow Run has been elected to a 1-year term as chairman of the Ypsilanti Township Park Commission.

Gordon H. Mattson of 1161 Laurel Ct. was selected by the other commissioners last night to replace Kenneth Hawks.

Other commission officers elected were Edward Sprague of 340 Edison Ave., vice chairman; and Irvin H. Wrubel of 1161 Rambling Rd., secretary.

Christ's formula for peace Is still the only answer

The current questing to put man at peace with his environment is but a resumption of the mission of Jesus 20 centuries ago. Then, as now, men were fearful — materialism had calloused the spirit; anchors found no sure holding ground anywhere and hopelessness was the rule.

Jesus gave the human race a simple formula. Accent the things of the spirit and every other good then will follow. You will have peace of mind which is the only security that this earth can provide.

Be merciful, just, long-suffering. Give to others without counting the cost to yourself. Only by engaging in good deeds personally can the individual feed the spirit and advance magnanimity until it becomes the common practice of the mass of humanity.

Jesus introduced these thoughts to the minds of men. They astonished men of good will and angered those of bad will. The final result was martyrdom, for men of bad will held the earthly power.

And out of martyrdom grew the central Easter message that man by his good deeds survives.

The irreducible Easter thought is that man must have good will toward his neighbor, and so survive, or bear ill will and perish.

Jesus dramatized that choice. It still confronts a sorrowful and fear-sick world.

Modern oppression can be met only by recognition that Christianity is the true way of life, that the towering promise of all time was made by Jesus, triumphant over both aggressors and the grave:

"Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world."

'Ypsilanti potpourri'

Perhaps the continuing controversy growing out of the arrests and lack of arrests following a Detroit policeman's murder over the weekend could have been avoided.

One of the leaders of the group involved refused to answer any police questions, standing on what he said were provisions of the Geneva Convention to divulge only his name, address and age. He took this stand, he told police, because he was an officer of the Republic of New Africa group, and "we consider ourselves at war."

Perhaps the Army should have been called in and these "people at war" with the U.S. taken in tow as prisoners of war.

like $21 million under Milliken's 40-60 plan.

The final decision on how the bond issue will be split lies with the Legislature. Letters, phone calls and telegrams to the governor and the lawmakers will help in efforts to salvage as much as possible of the $100 million for the needed recreation projects and development outside Detroit.

With the annual City Council election coming up Monday, it was strange to see several people out Sunday taking down campaign signs from utility poles and other public locations.

A day earlier there had appeared in The Press a picture which showed that no matter how unwittingly, campaign posters legally should not be affixed in public locations until five days prior to the election date. The same city ordinance provides that all must be removed within two days after the election. It will be interesting to see how many actually are taken down in accordance with the law.

Meaning of Easter found In respect, love for man

By JAMES F. SPRAGUE
First Church of Christ,
Scientist

Has our scientific, self-sufficient world outgrown the original Easter event — as a child outgrows egg hunts and the Easter bunny? Have we come too far on our own?

Questions like these may not be as modern as they sound. It was on the very first Easter day, according to the book of Matthew, that Christ Jesus' resurrection (Chapter 28) was doubted and denied. Yet, every year, as sure as spring, men look back to that event. The drama of those days still speaks to every age.

Deny yourself completely, the Saviour had taught, and you will save yourself. But what if we can see nothing beyond that denied "self," no promise hidden in the ashes of the "old" man? With immense practical affection for humanity, Jesus gave his answer.

Willingly Jesus yielded up his body and the temporal life and self associated with it. But the grave could not contain Him. The result was resurrection — His continuing life. He proved that real individuality is as irresistible as light. It can never be absorbed by darkness, can never be destroyed by circumstance or death.

How our hope and idealism are strengthened by that example.

We can grow and develop without limit. We are to become what we actually are — the sons of God!

Doesn't Easter promise that each of us can leave his own tomb? The imprisoning stone of selfishness, indifference to the suffering of others, mindless sensuality, self-doubt, can be rolled away. All can obey Jesus' command to Peter: "Follow me" (John 21:19).

We follow when we respond to the deeper needs of fellow men for dignity, affection, forgiveness. And such compassion begins to reveal true individuality — ourselves as known by God.

Isn't this the beginning of our resurrection — of finding again that endless wonder of the world's first Easter?

Looking backward... Through The Press files

20 YEARS AGO
April 3, 1949 — A friendly hour honoring the Rev. and Mrs. William Shaw and family, followed regular morning services at the First Baptist Church Sunday.

The congregation gathered in the church social hall where after greeting the Shaws and congratulating Mr. Shaw on his birthday anniversary refreshments were served.

Committee chairmen for the event were Mrs. Earl Studt, Mrs. Glen Ridenour, Mrs.

Russell McKay, and Mrs. Paul Ehman.

Harold Lonskey and John Max have returned home from Grand Rapids where they took part in a bowling tournament.

50 YEARS AGO
April 3, 1919 — Capes in great force stand ready to answer the demand for spring wraps this year, having gradually and surely ingratiated themselves into the likings of fashionable women.

Nothing demonstrates better the inexhaustible genius of designers than the constantly varying interpretations of the cape which make it the most interesting of wraps.

75 YEARS AGO
April, 1894 — Reserved seats for "The Doctor of Alcantara" will be on sale at Dodge's tomorrow. There is every indication that this popular opera, to be given in Cleary Hall tonight and Friday, will receive liberal patronage, and there is no doubt that it will abundantly merit it.

'Vote for our housing code'

TO THE EDITOR:

Citizens of Ypsilanti, do your duty to help yourself, your neighbors and your community! Vote for our new city housing code for the following reasons:

Keep housing standards moderately high to prevent your neighborhood from turning into a slum some day; Prevent exploitation of the poor by slumlords; Maintain eligibility for federal funding of much needed housing projects (at least keep the door open — we may not want to use federal dollars, but why exclude the possibility?), and, Remember that small violations will not be prosecuted any more than people are fined for driving a few miles per hour over the speed limit; however, flagrant violations would be prosecuted just as anyone driving 60 mph through a school zone.

Remember, the way a person lives does affect his neighbors. Germs and noxious odors know no boundaries; they don't know the old saying "a man's home is his castle." Let's see that every man's home is worthy of being his "castle" and not just a shack.

Vote for our new housing code April 7.

Giles F. Carter

'Let calm reason prevail'

I am disturbed by emotional protests entering into the consideration of the City Council's Housing Code.

Building codes are universal and a very common and necessary form of regulation in these days of complex living conditions. What I do with my property is not only of concern to me, but to my neighbors and to the whole community. The misuse or neglect of property can create all sorts of problems, economic and social.

The code recommended to us is not the result of hasty action, but rather of much deliberation. The code is not something to be feared and prematurely condemned. It is a proposal that should be given a fair trial. Like most legislation it can't be absolutely perfect in the eyes of everybody concerned. It can be amended when and if there is a proven need... If you are willing to accept federal financial assistance — even with reluctance — you must be willing to accept standards and controls.

I was manager of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce for 34 years. Of necessity I had many dealings with city officials on projects for the progress and betterment of our community. The people in our local government over these many years, whether old or young, progressive or conservative, have given us clean, competent service free from corruption or scandal.

The rewards of local public office are not very exciting (financially or otherwise), at least not in Ypsilanti. So far as the code proposal is concerned, the least we can do is show our confidence and be a little patient. Let calm reasoning prevail. We can use a lot of it in these trying times.

Parent stands behind board

TO THE EDITOR:

I was surprised to read the letter signed "A Parent" which appeared March 17. The letter made reference to a meeting at which State Rep. Roy Smith and the Willow Run Board of Education participated.

It is difficult to understand this bitter and unwarranted attack on the school board, since it should have been evident to everyone present that every effort was made by Mr. Smith and the board to communicate with the people. Written questions were requested to assist in keeping the meeting orderly and to help the moderator to group related questions together.

One of the reasons for "showing" some of the question slips to the board... was to determine who was best qualified to answer. Another reason was to request assistance in deciphering an illegible script.

All bona fide questions were answered, including many from the floor, except for a few which were repetitions of previously answered questions. In addition, everyone present was invited to remain after the group session to ask additional questions. In spite of the disruptions, I considered the meeting a success and wish to express my appreciation to Mr. Smith and our Board of Education.

Poor discipline Starts at home

TO THE EDITOR:

Dear Kitchen Table Teacher — I cannot really totally sympathize with your energetic, yet misguided logic. The argument you offer is ramified by the following:

Research has indicated "discipline problems" are generally brought to school and, although they may be magnified there, the far greater impetus originates in the home; the 'new math' you alluded to was developed and used in 1876; a teacher is paid for his command and distribution of given subject matter in a human setting, not as a clinician of delegated progeny by inadequate parents.

Larry Spangler, Teacher

Are we heading For extinction?

TO THE EDITOR:

Re: Ford Lake, the township engineer may be "very disappointed" by the failure of the State Water Resources Commission to declare that Huron River and Ford Lake should be made safe for swimming, but I surely am not — not with the reported 'tons' of dead carp and the debris. Even the treated sewage remains organic material despite the 'low' bacteria count, and continuous dumping of this upsets the balance and creates 'deserts' like Lake Erie.

It is past time for Ypsilanti — indeed, the nation — to stop polluting our environment and to clean up the mess already allowed to happen. Government perhaps, can provide tax incentives, but only the people can accomplish this task. Pollution isn't just disease-carrying bacteria; it is anything that makes our environment foul or dirty — that even includes food, wastes and cigarette butts.

The carp are dying now; many species of life are being destroyed. Are human beings going to make themselves extinct by slowly poisoning themselves?

Washington Report

OEO suppresses A critical report On 'Head Start'

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
And JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
WASHINGTON — Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee, is vigorously cracking down on the Office of Economic Opportunity, which administers the multi-billion dollar poverty program, to force the release of a critical report it is trying to suppress.

OEO has been bluntly ordered by Moss to submit the report to Rep. Edith Green (D-Ore.), head of the Higher Education Subcommittee, and Rep. Albert Quie (R-Minn.), who have been vainly asking for it for weeks.

ALLEN

GOLDSMITH

The suppressed report reportedly asserts that the widely acclaimed Head Start program has little or no lasting effect on the educational development of disadvantaged children. It concludes that benefits resulting from Head Start fade rapidly after the child enters the first grade.

In effect, the report maintains that compensatory education in the U.S. has been largely unsuccessful.

The report is the work of the Westinghouse Learning Corp., a subsidiary of giant Westinghouse Electric Co. WLC was given a $548,000 contract by OEO to make a study of Head Start. Its findings were submitted to OEO last month, but so far the agency has adamantly refused to divulge them.

Existence of the suppressed study was revealed by Daniel Moynihan, special White House assistant on urban affairs, at a meeting last month with members of the House Education and Labor Committee. He was briefing them on the administration's plans for shifting the Head Start program from OEO to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Moynihan mentioned that one reason for this decision was the adverse findings of the Westinghouse Learning Corp. report on the long range effectiveness of Head Start. Committee members thereupon sought copies of the study, but OEO flatly refused to produce it.

The legislators contended it was necessary for them to examine it in considering pending bills to continue the multi-billion dollar OEO program. This point was strongly stressed by Rep. Quie in a letter to Acting Director Bertrand Harding.

"Since hearings on the Economic Opportunity Act by the House Education and Labor Committee are about to start," wrote Quie, "I feel that the information contained in the Head Start report will be of important interest to the members of our committee."

Harding didn't even answer this request. An assistant told Quie, "We appreciate your interest in this matter" — and that was all.

Mrs. Green, ranking Democrat on the Education and Labor Committee and chairman of a subcommittee, was given the same run-around when she sought the suppressed study.

OEO officials informed her the report was still "unfinished and incomplete."

This claim immediately gave rise to belief that OEO was in the process of toning down and revising the critical Westinghouse study. The company itself expressed full willingness to release the document if permission was granted by OEO — which has not been forthcoming.

Rebuffed by OEO, Mrs. Green appealed to Rep. Moss to compel release of the study. He responded immediately by forcefully ordering OEO to produce the report.

Moss is a long-time crusader against bureaucratic obstruction and barriers to the publication of government information. He is author of the Right to Know Act, passed by Congress in 1967, which requires government agencies to divulge information on request where no security risk is involved.

OEO, in refusing to release the Westinghouse study, has flouted two laws — the Right to Know Act and a provision in the Economic Opportunity Act which explicitly states that all OEO research and evaluation reports are the property of the U.S. government and available for use by Congress.

Since the inception of OEO in 1964, more than $1.3 billion has been voted by Congress for Head Start. The new OEO budget calls for $338 million for Head Start for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Soviets to step in:

Czech leaders Told to prevent Demonstrations

PRAGUE (AP) — Moscow told Czechoslovakia's leaders to prevent further anti-Soviet demonstrations or Soviet occupation troops would step in, foreign newsmen have been told.

The message was brought to Prague by Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grechko and Deputy Foreign Minister Vladimir S. Semyonov who arrived on Monday.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the two were sent "on instructions of the Soviet government." Since their arrival they have met several times with the leaders of the Czechoslovak Communist party.

Foreign newsmen were told the ultimatum they brought gave Czechoslovak authorities a choice between halting further anti-Soviet demonstrations on their own or asking for help from some of the estimated 70,000 Soviet troops here since their invasion last August.

If tighter security measures were not taken the ultimatum is reported to have said, Soviet tanks would run the demonstrators down.

Moscow's crackdown was prompted by anti-Soviet demonstrations in a number of cities last week after Czechoslovakia's hockey team defeated the Soviet Union's players in a match at Stockholm, Sweden.

The demonstrations apparently were more widespread and more violent than was first thought. In addition to the sacking of the Prague office of Aeroflot, the Soviet airline, the Czechoslovak party leadership said there had been vandalism against Russian barracks in a number of cities and at World War II cemeteries and "crude and undignified insults" directed at Russian individuals.

There was an unconfirmed report of a shooting involving Czechoslovak and Russian troops at Kromeriz, in Moravia.

The Interior Ministry announced earlier that 51 policemen were injured in the rioting, 39 of them in Slovakia.

After sessions with the Moscow delegation Monday, the party leadership held an all-night meeting and announced there would be stricter censorship of news media and strengthening of security forces.

A statement issued after the all-night meeting accused the press, radio and television of creating a mood "which in some places grew to anti-Soviet hysteria" after the hockey victory.

Until the clampdown, the news media had been subject to self-censorship and retained some of the outspokenness that characterized them before the Soviet invasion.

The effect of the new controls was felt immediately. The presidium announced the suspension of the weekly Politika for "serious political errors." The weekly Zitrek also did not appear, and 60,000 copies of the humor magazine Didkodraz were said to have been confiscated.

Pope sees 'crucified' church

A church crucified by the 'scandal' imposed upon it by prelates quitting the clergy was described by Pope Paul VI in a speech delivered at the Vatican as the Pontiff gave his weekly general audience in St. Peter's Basilica yesterday. The Pope said the very existence of the Catholic Church was threatened by the 'restless, critical, and demolishing' rebellion of priests and laymen. (AP Photo)

Police prevent Manhattan blow-up

NEW YORK (AP) — Midtown Manhattan might have rocked to explosions today if police raiders hadn't headed off a conspiracy by 21 members of the Black Panther party to bomb five department stores, crowded with Easter shoppers, the district attorney says.

Seven of the 21 Panthers indicted Wednesday on charges of conspiracy to murder, arson and weapons violations were still at large.

Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, announcing the 12-count indictment, said the Panthers had planned to bomb the stores, a railroad, a police station and kill policemen today, in an attack on "the white power structure."

Teams of police, heavily armed and wearing bullet-proof vests, netted 12 suspects in early morning raids Wednesday. Two others were in custody in a Newark N.J., jail.

The 12 defendants pleaded innocent before Supreme Court Justice Charles Marks, who held them in $100,000 bail each, despite their lawyers' protest that the bail was excessive and unconstitutional.

Marks signed arrest warrants minutes after a grand jury handed up the indictment at 1 a.m. Wednesday.

Among those arrested was Robert S. Collier, 32, convicted in 1965 of plotting to blow up the Statue of Liberty. He served 21 months of a five-year sentence and was released from Lewisburg, Pa. Federal Penitentiary in March, 1968.

Hogan said the defendants plotted to:

— Bomb Macy's, Alexander's, Bloomingdale's, Korvette's and Abercrombie & Fitch, and fire guns into the store.

— Dynamite the tracks of the Penn Central Railroad at six points in The Bronx.

— Bomb a Bronx police station to divert police from the railroad bombings.

— "They agreed to assassinate police officers by bombs and guns and planned a number of other coordinated acts of violence," Hogan told a news conference.

Cong accuses U.S. Of Viet treachery

PARIS (AP) — The Viet Cong accused the United States today of "cunning treachery" by its talk of progress in the Vietnam peace talks. It said there has been "no progress at all."

Tran Buu Keim, leader of the National Liberation Front's delegation, told the 11th weekly session of the enlarged talks:

The key to the settlement of the present South Vietnamese problem is that the United States must withdraw its own and satellite troops from South Vietnam without any condition whatsoever."

It is a demand that the Viet Cong and North Vietnam have made for years.

Kiem not only accused the United States of stepping up the war in South Vietnam. He charged it with violating, bombing and shelling the territory of Cambodia and of increasing air attacks on Laos, "surpassing even the tonnage of bombs dropped on North Vietnam in the fiercest bombing period."

Referring to the recent flurry of American statements about progress in the Paris talks, Kiem said:

"The Nixon administration ... is trying its best to make people believe there has been progress in the negotiations and that everything will be settled within a certain time. This is nothing but cunning treachery. The fact is that the Nixon administration is feverishly intensifying the war in South Vietnam, sticking to the Saigon puppet administration and seeking a position of strength on the battlefield and at the conference table. That is why the Paris conference on Vietnam has made no progress at all."

Kiem also referred to the U.S. offers to begin private talks, saying: "While speaking of private talks, the Americans at the same time put forth other conditions which expose their deceitful and stubborn nature."

North Vietnam's Xuan Thuy made a similar declaration.

Viet toll tops Korea

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command confirmed today that the number of Americans killed in action in the Vietnam war exceeded the number in the Korean war by the end of last week.

The command said 312 Americans were killed in action last week, increasing the total American combat deaths to 33,641 since Jan. 1, 1961.

The Vietnam war is now the fourth most costly in U.S. history in terms of American lives, surpassed only by the Civil War and the two World Wars.

Talk on youth careers offered

Dr. Evart W. Ardis, former superintendent of the Ypsilanti Public Schools and now an official of three area educational institutions, will be the speaker for the Ypsilanti Federation of Women's Clubs on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting will be at the Grove Rd. Branch of the National Bank of Ypsilanti. The session will include election of officers of the federation. Dr. Ardis is well qualified to speak on his topic, "Career Planning for Today's Youth." He is the director of the Bureau of Appointments and Occupational Information at the University of Michigan, and besides that personnel post, he has posts on the guiding boards of two colleges giving special job training — he is the newly elected president of the board of trustees of the Washtenaw Community College and is on the board of directors of Cleary College.

His present U-M position consists of directing and coordinating the job placement of graduates and alumni.

Ardis has a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University, a master's from Northwestern University, a doctor's in business administration from Cleary and a doctor of laws from Eastern Michigan University.

He was superintendent in Ypsilanti schools from 1953 to 1959, having had similar posts in Freeport, Inkster and East Detroit previously. He has been in the U-M post since 1959.

Living in Ypsilanti, he has been active in the Methodist Church, Kiwanis Club and working with the Boys' Club of Ypsilanti, as well as education groups on a state and national level. He has been president of the Kiwanis group, and is chairman of his church board, a director of the Boys' Club, on the regional board of the Boy Scouts, and a member of the Ypsilanti Tax Commission. He has been president of the Michigan Association of School Administrators, and a vice president of the American Association of School Administrators. He has also been president of the American Association for School, College and University Staffing.

Miss Bernice Inwood, chairman of the Youth Guidance Committee, and her committee members, Mrs. Wayne G. Spike, Mrs. Henry Fisher, Mrs. Frances Knipp, Mrs. Ashley Sayles, and Mrs. Edward Daniels are in charge of program plans.

The election of officers will be a highlight of the business meeting. Hostess clubs for the meeting are the St. John's Rosary Altar Society, the Suburban Child Study Club and the Altrusa Club.

Symbols she has designed and embroidered on church vestments, which she has created from extra-wide materials, are shown by Mrs. George Marsh at her home at 171 N. Lamay Ave. The white vestment, usually worn on Easter, has silver metallizing decor. The Infant of Prague figure, traditionally adorned in fabric robes, wears an outfit she made. And other clothes and robes are also her handiwork.

Housewives not using Roasting aid available

About 90 per cent of women have kitchen ranges with temperature control or a thermostat in the oven, reports a recent survey made on meats. But, only one out of seven interviewed said they use a meat thermometer!

Yet, one is probably as important as the other and would do as much to getting of doneness as the other in controlling cooking temperature. Meat that's roasted to just the right internal temperature is juicier and has less shrinkage than overcooked meat.

According to this same survey, women have responded favorably to education on roasting at moderate temperature. Some of them even report using the slower oven temperature while few use a hot oven.

Church handwork done

By DOROTHY ZACK
Press Women's Editor

A woman who puts her sewing machine to work for her church, Mrs. George (Pauline) Marsh embroiders symbols of Christianity in bright colors on priest's vestments.

At St. Alexis Catholic Church, the priest this weekend will be wearing a white vestment with a sparkling silver star designed and embroidered by this housewife.

It was years ago, Mrs. Marsh of 171 R. Lamay Ave. recalls, that, seeing other women being active in their parish organizations, she realized she could better serve her church at home because of the brace she wears. She had had polio when she was 9 years old, and although she stands and walks well, it does limit her activities. So when she acquired a sewing machine with elaborate attachments and realized she could do church vestments and altar cloths, she said to herself, "Now there's something I can do for my church."

Back in 1954 when St. Alexis Church was a small mission parish that had had a church fire, she went into the making of church things in replacing things that were burned, donating time so that the church could use its funds for other badly needed items.

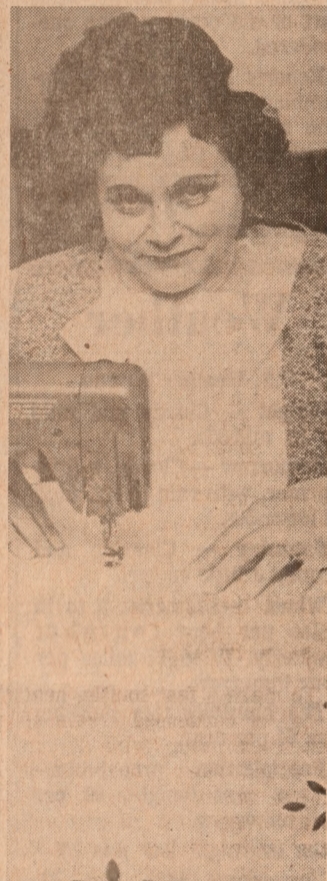

The church has a lot of "nice, dedicated people," she says, and they volunteer in many ways. Mrs. Marsh does the church linen—washing and ironing, which with creasing just so or rolling to avoid creases is no mean task—and is paid for that work. But most of the vestments worn by the Rev. Fr. Richard U. Bonin and the University of Michigan student who aids him are items made by Mrs. Marsh. She gives her time always, and often the fabrics and materials, too.

She is going to do a new set of linens, soon, to supplement another set at the church — small table covers and the long altar cloth, and other pieces.

The purple vestment pictured has two doves, front and back, done in metallic threads. The white one has a blue emblem, and this one the priest began wearing today and will wear through the Easter services. She has made five sets of these, which have stoles to match with crosses on the ends.

She is planning now, a green vestment, such as usually worn during summer months in Catholic churches. She needs, she says extra wide fabrics, so that seaming is avoided.

Surprisingly, these elaborate robes are washable. She makes them of polyester or orlon fabrics, so that washing doesn't harm the fabric. The emblems usually are made on separate pieces, and are sewn lightly on with invisible stitches, and taken off for washing. The purple one pictured is of bonded orlon, the white one of polyester. "They're doing away with lots of silks and satins formerly used," this handworker says,

CUT-OUT WORK on a square cloth for a church table at St. Alexis Catholic Church is done by Mrs. George Marsh at her special sewing machine.

"and they're going to make more practical materials. Silks show every little wrinkle."

She explains the various parts of the robes that the priest wears — first the amice of white linen goes around his neck and shoulders, and the alb goes over that, also usually of white linen. Then the stole is donned, and tied around the waist with a cincture. The vestment goes on last — the white one shown is a chasuble in the Gothic style.

The Marshes have a married son, and a grandson. Mr. Marsh, who works at the Rawsonville plant of Ford Motor Co., aids in the church project by picking up and delivering the items his wife does.

She sews a few dresses for herself and has made shirts for her husband, but she isn't fond of doing buttonholes, she says. And in her home, she likes to use plastic dollies, which wash so much easier.

Items such as the yard-square cloths with cut-out flower designs, or the four long altar pieces that are changed frequently at the church, show Mrs. Marsh's gladness to take time to do good work for her church.

L'AIGLON

Huge eggs key her Eastertime art

Mrs. Jane Everett of Tiburon, Calif., housewife and amateur painter, begins work on an ostrich egg, last of her supply of rare egg shells which she has been decorating for years after the manner of enameled and bejeweled eggs produced by Faberge, goldsmith to Russian royalty. Mrs. Everett uses firm shells of the ostrich, rhe, goose and guinea. Braid, lace, and bits of junk jewelry combine with bright enamels. Eggs are sliced to open, and linings are of silk or satin. She has done over 300, many for friends' gifts at Eastertime. (AP Photo)

Fruity Dessert Tops meal

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

A delightful way to serve fruit sherbet is to combine it with fresh fruits and liqueur. It's a good holiday dessert to top off roast veal and natural gravy, steamed rice, buttered carrots, green salad, bread tray, and beverage.

ORANGE SUNDAY

2 oranges
2 bananas
1 pint orange sherbet
1/4 cup orange-flavor liqueur

Peel oranges so they are membrane-free; cut sections away from dividing membranes. Peel and slice bananas and add to oranges. Chill. At serving time place scoops of sherbet in sherbet glasses; surround with orange mixture. Spoon 12 tablespoon liqueur over each serving. Makes four servings.

Pythians Have meal, Program

The second annual smorgasbord dinner was held at the Pythian Hall with members of the Queen City Lodge No. 167, Knights of Pythias, and their wives Saturday evening.

James Kash having had eight years of being an Army cook, prepared the meal assisted by his wife and other members. The members of the lodge assisted in serving the meal and clearing the tables.

A program followed the meal with several of the pupils of Miss Judy Novak, putting on a demonstration of twirling with a climax of a fire baton by Miss Novak.

The pupils participating were Carol Bondie, Sheila Hulse, Susan Szymanski, Pam Hudgens and Annette Baughman.

Games took up the balance of the evening.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Staples given at shower

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: In our office we have our share of young women who get married, and someone has come up with the idea of a "staples" shower, instead of the usual cash collection.

After all, all young couples do eat, and this enables everyone to contribute as much, or as little, as their individual desires call for.

A list was made up on a duplicating machine, which can be used again and again, and circulated. Each person chooses the item he or she wishes to give, and signs up to bring that item.

This also insures a variety of items, and the three young women who have been the recipients of such a shower have been delighted with a well-filled larder.

Any canned goods, cake mixes, cleaning products, package goods, salad oil, syrups, shortening, soups, fruits, vegetables, paper towels, tissues are given. The list is endless . . . and so appreciated.

We have the "party" during lunch hour, and even the men get a charge out of adding their bit. Margaret C. Hill

DEAR HELOISE: When I purchase a new bottle of fingernail polish I always put it in the refrigerator and leave it there until I have used it all up.

By doing this your polish will keep as new as the day you purchased it.

Also I learned the minute I open a bottle of new polish to put a little salad oil around the rim — the cap will be much easier to get off and won't get stuck either! A Reader

DEAR HELOISE: We have all used lemon juice from those nice fat little plastic lemons. When one gets empty, wash it good, hold under the water faucet — squeeze to fill half full. Dry real well.

Now put your hard brown sugar in a large-mouthed jar. Put in the lemon with the cap off, pushing it down in the sugar up to the neck. (Leave the cap off the lemon so the moisture can escape.)

Put the lid back on the jar and let this stand.

Then see what moist brown sugar you have in a few days or so. Elva Lacy

DEAR HELOISE: Seems as if everyone has mice problems at one time or another.

This particular incident changed my frown to a smile while cleaning up after the mice.

The mouse in our cupboard seemed to have a sweet tooth. He was always chewing on candy bars and cookies. But this time, imagine how it brightened my day when cleaning up the mess to find a forgotten package of "anti-acid" tablets had also been nibbled upon.

The job didn't seem half bad after that. Nancy Berg

DEAR HELOISE: While preparing to fix the table for a children's birthday party I was at a loss for a centerpiece.

As you know, we usually have balloons for the kiddies. Well, I just got out my large punchbowl, put a brick (anything heavy like that will do) in the bowl, and tied a string around the blown-up balloons and tied 'em on to the brick as close as possible.

You end up with the bowl full of colorful balloons.

When the children are through eating their cake and ice cream, you simply untie the balloons and give one to each child.

Really makes an attractive centerpiece and very easy to do.

I used this on my patio and had no trouble with the balloons flying out. V. E. J.

MISS CLAUDIA J. ZELLER

Dieter cites rewards of slimming

By IDA JEAN KAIN
Sometimes I think I do not emphasize enough the many-splendored rewards of slimming down to normal weight. Some of you who reduce jubilantly write that you could shout the good news from the housetops. And that's a glorious feeling.
Let a triumphant homemaker from Ohio tell her story:

"I am a short woman who weighed 110 at marriage thirty years ago," she writes. "During the years when our family was arriving, I paid little attention to my eating habits. As for exercise... it seemed to me nobody could possibly need exercise while caring for a husband and four babies day in day out."
"The upshot was that I soon looked immense and felt wretchedly unhappy about the situation. Many times I tried to lose weight but then fell back to overeating again. I went on fighting a half-hearted battle until I was fifty and weighed 158 and felt thoroughly miserable. Finally I decided that I could not stand the situation any longer. So I embarked on a sensible, slow undramatic plan. I ate a good hearty breakfast with all the necessary nutritional requirements...and adequate lunch and well-balanced dinner.

"One thing I needed when I first started was quick results to bolster my resolve and spur me on. I think a reducing diet should be strict at first so the results show immediately. After a week or two, the reducing pace can be slower to produce lasting results."

"After two years, I have learned just how much I can indulge myself during holidays and soon... before I cut back again," she concluded.
Bless you! And many thanks for sharing. As you have implied...only a triumphant reducer can know all the glorious rewards of successful slimming.

Teacher on Okinawa To be pilot's bride

An Ypsilanti teaching on Okinawa will become the bride of an Air Force pilot.
The engagement of Miss Claudia J. Zeller, who is teaching with the U.S. Department of Defense on Okinawa, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Zeller of 710 Cornell Rd.

Her fiancé, Robert A. Byron of Rancho Cordova, Calif., is the son of Mrs. Thomas C. Byron of Remington, Ind. and the late Mr. Byron. He is a 1961 graduate of Remington High School and a 1966 graduate of Indiana University, where he was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. He is a co-pilot with the Air Force, and is stationed at Beale AFB in Calif.

Miss Zeller is a 1961 Roosevelt High School graduate, and a 1965 graduate of Eastern Michigan University where she received her M.A. degree in 1968 and where she was a member of Alpha Sigma Tau sorority.
She has chosen July 19 as her wedding date.

Ham dinner set At Stony Creek

Saturday, April 12, has been selected by the men of Stony Creek United Methodist Church as the date for their annual ham dinner. About 600 diners are being expected.
The menu will consist of baked ham, green beans, scalloped potatoes, salad, relishes and homemade pies and coffee, tea and milk. Dinners will be served from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.
Members of the planning committee are: Mrs. Howard Parrett and Mrs. Hayward Barber, kitchen co-chairmen, Cecil Vargason, dining room, Newton Davis, general chairman, Tom Williams, coffee, Edward Waseem, reception, Mr. Parrett, treasurer, George Lutz, supplies, Arthur Meharg, publicity, and Jack Spack and Charles Hayes, dish detail.
The ham dinner is a church wide project with men, women and youth groups sharing in preparing and serving the dinner. Plans have been made to serve 600 dinners.
Proceeds will be used to aid the building program.

GM bucks auto drop-off

DETROIT (AP)—Industry auto sales, during the last 11 days of March were off 8.7 per cent compared to a year ago, but General Motors bucked the trend and registered a slight increase.

There were nine selling days during the period, both this year and last.

A total of 293,317 cars were sold in the United States by all makers during the period, compared to 321,199 last year. The daily rate stood at 32,591 cars. In the mid-March period 253,157 cars were sold. So far, the automakers have sold 2,327,335 cars this year, compared to 2,224,000 at this time in 1968.

GM sales for the month totaled 380,735, setting a new record of 2,761 units sold per day.

In the first quarter of 1968, GM passenger car deliveries totaled 1,090,265, up 8.1 per cent from a year ago.

Cadillac led division sales, with a 14 per cent increase. Following were Chevrolet with 13.5 per cent and Oldsmobile with 8.5 per cent rises.

Chrysler sales led the downward trend in the last period of March, falling 19.4 per cent compared to the comparable 1968 figures. The company sold 55,686 units for the period this year compared to 69,053 last. But recent sales were up from the mid-March period, when 42,856 cars were delivered.

Sales to date this year of 339,939 were also down from last year's 373,883.

One Chrysler division general manager, Robert B. McCurry of Dodge, said:

"Our market position, based on strength of sales we have seen in the first quarter, appears strong for the spring buying season."

Ford Motor Co. officials, even with their sales down 16.6 per cent in the period, are bullish about the outlook of the industry and their company.

They are waiting for the April 17 arrival of the Maverick, Ford's new compact designed to compete with imports in the $2,000 range.

Augusta officials Answer firemen

The complaint of an Augusta Township fireman who said he and his buddies were risking their lives without adequate compensation today drew a stiff rebuttal from township officials.

Township Supervisor Sylvester J. Blaszk said that the Township Board on Feb. 7 proposed to increase the volunteer fire department budget by 25 per cent which would be an increase of 100 per cent over a 4-year period.

Township Treasurer James R. Collins said the township is working to provide the firemen with insurance policies which would include $25,000 for accidental death, $25,000 for accidental dismemberment, plus other provisions.

Blaszk said all volunteer firemen get $5 per fire whether they respond to the fire call or not. He said other delegates to a recent convention of the Michigan Township Association were surprised at such a policy and that attorneys have ruled that this is a misuse of public funds.

However, the wife of a volunteer fireman, who did not want her name used yesterday argued that a statement from Fireman Gerald E. Giraud was not printed completely and as a consequence did not give the true picture of the firefighter's plight.

Asked if she would be at Saturday's annual meeting of the Township Board, she said, "You can bet your life that I will."

Giraud has asked for a big turnout as a show of force in support of the volunteer firemen.

Blaszk disputed Giraud's statements that firemen get only $5 a call and Giraud's question of "who wants to fight fires for $250 a year."

Blaszk said Giraud himself made $462 last year.

Blaszk said that from July 1, 1968 until Dec. 31 the department made 36 runs. He said that one fireman made only 13 runs of the 36 and was paid $180 or $13.08 per run.

He said that in the last four years there never has been a denied request from the fire chiefs. He said it was impossible to provide a fulltime department without a millage election.

He also urged the public to attend the 2 p.m. Saturday meeting.

Treasurer Collins said the volunteer fire department last year cost the township $21,134. He said 72 fires were covered, costing the township $293 per fire.

He said the department has one chief who receives $990 per year plus $3 for each training meeting plus two assistant chiefs who receive $660 plus $3 a meeting.

He said the department has 16 volunteers who receive $5 per fire regardless of whether they respond to the alarm or not plus $3 per meeting.

Each man is covered by workman's compensation, Collins said. He suggested that "this dedicated individual would appreciate the proposed insurance plan because his family would have much better protection than they had in the past."

Nixon to support investment tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration apparently will oppose a congressional drive to repeal the 7 per cent investment tax credit denounced by critics as an "engine of inflation."

Most of the committee's Republican members disagreed. Their minority view was shared by administration officials in private interviews, although the administration has taken no public stand on the question. "I don't find much sympathy in the administration for proposals to suspend or repeal the tax credit," one high official said. "We're not in any crisis that requires measures different from the anti-inflation package we have outlined—to cut spending, get the 10 per cent surtax extended, keep restraint on credit."

But in Congress the pressures for suspension of the tax credit have mounted rapidly since last month's official disclosure that U. S. corporations plan a 14 per cent increase from last year in their outlays for plant and equipment. Capital investment on that scale, many economists agree, would add fuel to inflation.

The issue is expected to develop into a major debate; it may break out soon, when Congress takes up President Nixon's request for a one-year extension of the 10 per cent surtax on individual and corporate incomes.

Labor has lined up with the repeal forces. President George Meany of the AFL-CIO testified that killing the tax credit would not only help curb inflation but would release some investment funds to support home building.

Business takes the opposite tack, although industry groups opposed the idea in 1962 when the late President John F. Kennedy persuaded Congress to approve it.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

2,500 mourn Dead policeman

DETROIT (AP) — More than 2,500 mourners marched ahead of the hearse Wednesday to Epiphany Catholic Church, where a Requiem Mass was sung for Patrolman Michael Czapski, 22, killed Saturday night in a confrontation with what police described as a group of Negro separatists.

Czapski's partner, Patrolman Richard E. Worobec, was wounded in the confrontation and five Negroes were injured later as police stormed a church in which they said the ambushers took refuge. Four Negroes were hit by gunfire.

Most of those who marched before Czapski's hearse were policemen, many of them from other states. With them were Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh and the entire Detroit city council. Worobec was quoted as saying a group of Negroes armed with rifles opened fire on him and Czapski when they sought to question them outside a church where a meeting of the self-proclaimed Republic of New Africa had just adjourned.

The Republic of New Africa has declared its independence of the United States and is demanding that five southern states be turned over to it for formation of a black nation. It also is asking $400 billion in reparations.

Controversy continued meanwhile Wednesday over the release by Recorder's Judge George W. Crockett Jr. Sunday of all but two of 135 arrested in the storming of the church where policemen said the riflemen had taken refuge. Seven rifles and three pistols were reported confiscated.

Crockett refused to delay release of eight prisoners police wanted detained longer.

Police said nitrate tests showed all eight recently had fired guns. Crockett ruled the tests had been conducted unconstitutionally because those tested were not advised in advance of their constitutional rights.

Also Wednesday, Michigan Gov. William Milliken said he was "extremely concerned" about Crockett's handling of those arrested. He said Crockett's conduct was a "proper area of review" for the new State Judicial Tenure Commission. Milliken said he wasn't prejudging Crockett's actions.

Detroit Mayor Jerome Cavanagh also said Wednesday he favored the probe of Crockett. "I think Judge Crockett acted with haste in exercising what obviously are his judicial prerogatives," the mayor said.

The Michigan Senate passed a resolution Tuesday asking the state's Judicial Tenure Commission to investigate handling of the case, and the Detroit Area Association of Defense Trial Counsel did so today.

Police said Wednesday three of those originally taken into custody for investigation of conspiracy to murder and later released were, under charges elsewhere.

They were listed by police as Herman Benjamin Ferguson, 48, who identified himself as director of education for the Republic of New Africa, and Arthur Harris, 24, both of New York, and David Owens, 32, of Pittsburgh.

Police said their records showed Ferguson and Harris had been charged with conspiracy to murder, to commit arson, to commit anarchy and to advocate anarchy in New York June 21, 1967, when police reported seizing 34 guns and a quantity of ammunition in a raid.

Ferguson and Harris also face charge, police said, of conspiracy to murder Whitney Young, head of the Urban League, and Roy Wilkins, chief of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, on Oct. 18, 1968.

Owens was reported at liberty under $25,000 bond and awaiting trial in Pittsburgh under a six-count indictment growing out of a shootout last Oct. 8 between Pittsburgh police and two fugitives. Owens was wounded in that incident, police said. Authorities in Pittsburgh have asked that his bond be revoked.

Tank critic ordered quiet

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman who charged the Army with a "billion-dollar boo-boo" in developing a new tank has been ordered to stop talking publicly about the matter.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., confirmed ordering Rep.

Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., to stop giving interviews or issuing news releases about the Sheridan tank.

Rivers took the action in his position as chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. Stratton heads a subcommittee, under Rivers' jurisdiction, investigating the Sheridan program.

"I told him to stop saying anything unless he had something worthwhile to say," Rivers said in an interview.

"He was getting to the point where he was turning out a news release about it every day," said Rivers.

"I'm not trying to put a lid on anything," said Rivers. "I'm simply concerned about the morale of our troops in Vietnam."

It was Stratton's investigation that led to release of a previously classified document on the new Sheridan tank. Stratton called the tank a "billion dollar boo-boo," because:

It is too noisy and leaves a large exhaust trail as to be nearly useless as a reconnaissance vehicle; uses improper ammunition; has a leaky fuel tank and several other problems.

Stratton, normally willing to talk about his subcommittee work, was reluctant to discuss the matter when approached about the investigation Wednesday by a newsmen.

Finally, he said Rivers had asked him "to put a lid on interviews and news releases" and he had agreed.

"This investigation by Stratton's subcommittee is still going on," said Rivers. "After it's all over I'm sure there will be things we want the press to know. And we'll be glad to tell you anything."

Hearings into the controversial tank are continuing this week, but Stratton said they will be in executive session.

Council explains code stand

In November, 1968, when the council began its review of the new Housing Code, copies were mailed to a citizen committee known as C.I.T.Y. This committee had objected to a previous code revision. It was hoped that persons concerned would inform the council of their ideas. Nothing was communicated to the council from this committee prior to the night of final adoption.

Hindsight at this point would say that the city could have presented the code for community study in a better way. However, having tailored the code to meet Ypsilanti and not having contact from the C.I.T.Y. committee in nearly two months, the code was adopted only after careful study by the City Council.

The city was informed in July, 1969, that the outdated 1917 Housing Law of Michigan was not acceptable as a modern code. A letter dated March 10, 1969, from the federal government has told the city that if the new code is repealed, federal funds will not be granted for the proposed 100-unit senior citizen high rise. There are 12 federally supported programs dependent upon Ypsilanti having a modern housing code; here are some:

1. Public housing
2. Urban renewal and neighborhood development programs
3. Low-rent housing program
4. Mortgage insurance under FHA at market or below-market interest rates for low and moderate income families
5. Rent supplement projects.

The important differences between the old and new housing codes are summarized here: First, the new code provides for safe electrical wiring; the old code doesn't mention electrical wiring. Second, the right to inspect a house is only given when permission is granted by the owner-tenant in the new code. Third, the old code does not establish a citizen housing board of appeals (HBA) while the new code does. (This HBA can overrule the inspector and grant variances for hardship cases).

Medal won By Saline Sergeant

SALINE — Heroism in action against the enemy has earned Army Staff Sgt. Lloyd C. Lee, 21, of Saline the Bronze Star Medal.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis J. Lee of 150 Circle Court.

The action occurred near Cu Chi, South Vietnam.

Lee, who graduated from Saline High School in 1966, is a platoon sergeant in Co. B, 1st Battalion of the 25th Infantry Division's 5th Infantry Regt.

Grass fires Were chore For firemen

The Ypsilanti Township Fire Department had a very active month according to their monthly report submitted Tuesday night by Chief Robert H. Fuller.

The biggest chore facing the firemen during the month was extinguishing a record number of grass fires. Over 700 acres of land was scorched by 121 grass fires.

Firemen spent 86 hours and 56 minutes at the scene of fires and fought the blazes with 779 regular men responding to the calls and 11 volunteers. The 779 regular men reflects the total number of paid men turning out to the calls.

Units of the department responded to 16 house fires and showed four assists to Superior firemen, three to the State Police, two to the Sheriff's Department and one assist each to Augusta Township, Willow Run Airport fire department and the city department.

Farmer completes Tour-study session

A 2-week tour of the United States, part of a self-enrichment program designed to help farmers "accept and win public office in the face of the declining vote power of the farm," was recently completed by an Ypsilanti Township farmer.

Raymond Schultz of 10090 Martz Rd., who operates a 500-acre truck garden and grain farm, was one of a group of 30 Michigan farmers sent on the tour by the Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek.

The same 30 toured the state last year, and will travel around the world next year. The foundation has three other similar groups, with two having completed the 3-tour program.

Schultz said the tours include the study of sociology, politics and economics, which overshadow the agriculture portion of the program.

He first went to Washington, D.C., where the group was met by U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) and Michigan's two senators.

Next was a stop at Huntsville Ala., where the TVA project was studied. Other places visited were San Francisco, Sacramento and Los Angeles, Calif.

RAYMOND SCHULTZ

The farmers met with farm cooperative bargaining groups in California, and talked with workers who were involved in the strike which led to the grape boycott.

The world tour next year will be for 4-5 weeks, Schultz said.

He is not a newcomer to political life, being a 7-year veteran member of the Lincoln Consolidated Board of Education.

His nomination to the Kellogg Foundation was made by the Cooperative Extension Services of Washtenaw and Wayne Counties.

Primary bill reaction mixed

LANSING (AP) — A bill to establish a presidential primary has received a mixed reception at a hearing before the House Elections Committee.

But both supporters and opponents of the bill Wednesday said there was little satisfaction with the present system.

The bill, introduced by Rep. John Bennett, D-Detroit, also is being circulated as a petition calling for a statewide referendum to decide if voters should be allowed to mark ballots with presidential candidates as well as delegates to the national conventions.

The 1968 presidential election sparked widespread dissatisfaction, mostly among Democrats, with the current method of delegate selection, witnesses said.

Under the current system, voters must elect county convention delegates two years before those representatives meet in district and state caucuses to pick national convention delegates.

Supporters of the bill said the two-year time lag gives the man on the street too little influence in picking national convention delegates.

John Koza, a member of the New Democratic Coalition and backer of the petition drive, called the present system "one man, no vote." He added that convention delegates "are not responsible to anybody."

August Scholle, state AFL-CIO president, said the bill attempts to meet "many pragmatic problems" but misses the point.

"People don't seem to understand that this wouldn't change one iota," Scholle said. "An incumbent president wields more influence" in picking delegates than anyone else, he said.

"If people don't realize that they're just politically naive," he added.

Scholle also took issue with a provision of the bill that instructs the secretary of state to include persons on the primary ballot who are "generally advocated or recognized in the national news media" as candidates.

"I shudder at the prospect of having the newspapers publicize the candidates. I think they have too much influence now," he said.

James McNeely, Democratic party state chairman, opposed the bill, saying, "The proposed system would ask the voter his opinion and then ignore it."

He identified what he said were two flaws of the bill:

1. Election of national convention delegates by total votes in State Senate districts would violate the one-man, one-vote concept.
 2. The proposed election of at-large delegates would be a form of unit rule.
- The unit rule, McNeely said, was "abolished with such pride" in 1968.

Marken's ownership Changes second time

Gourmet cooking prepared in the European tradition is promised by the new managers of Marken's Restaurant at 15 W. Michigan Ave.

The new proprietors are two Greek immigrants, Dinos Tsipis, 35, and Evans Parashos, 30, both from Dearborn.

They took over from Demos Panos in the second change of ownership since the first of the year. The restaurant, long an eating institution in Ypsilanti, formerly was owned by Paul Blok.

He sold the restaurant while in the hospital because of injuries suffered during a fall in a parking lot. The place was founded 25 years ago by two student attorneys and bears their names, Mark and Ken. It will continue to be known as Marken's, Tsipis said.

Tsipis said Panos, who owns Friar Tuck's Pantry at 3201 Washtenaw Ave., found that he could not operate both restaurants.

Both Tsipis and Parashos are chefs with many years of training. Both were born in Greece and still have roots there. Tsipis' father is a Greek Orthodox minister. Both of Parashos' parents still live in Greece.

Blok has donated his own recipes, long familiar to Ypsilanti residents, and Tsipis said he will combine them with his own. Tsipis said he has worked at the Detroit Yacht Club, the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Westwood Inn and Meyers Sea Food in Dearborn.

Tsipis bemoaned the loss of status of cooks in America as compared to Europe, where a man works up from bus boy through the ranks until he finally becomes a chef, an honored profession.

"I love to prepare good food for other people," he said. "I love to see other people enjoy my cooking."

He said the restaurant will be open for Sunday dinners for the first time on May 1.

School census 'Must' lifted

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has signed into law a bill eliminating the mandatory requirement that local school districts conduct an annual school census.

Under the previous school code, districts were required to make a yearly count of all persons within their borders under the age of 20. The annual census is taken in May.

What really matters?

By KATHLEEN ROY
Student,
Silver Spring, Maryland

I was already late for the bus. The hill I had to go down was so steep that I had to move extra slowly. My books were heavy, and my muscles cramped as I carried the load.

At last, the hill behind me, I could see the bus stop where the ground leveled, and I knew that this morning I would reach my destination without falling.

"Hi, Kath," said my friend. "Hi. Sure is cold this morning."

As we began to talk, I automatically concentrated on our conversation instead of my balance. A book fell from my arms as I lurched a little.

"Here, Sil-ly," my pal KATHLEEN said affectionately as he handed it back to me. We crowded into the bus and I almost lost my balance as I walked down the aisle, but in my seat at last I was safely on my way to school.

When the bus stopped I went to my locker and finally dropped my heavy load. "Good morning, Mr. Dell." He was my English teacher — and one of my favorites.

"Well, Kathy, how's my friend today?" he asked. "Okay," I answered. I went on to my homeroom.

As I walked down the hall, I felt my legs turn in as they always do when I try to move faster.

My spastic movements were noticed by my schoolmates but they, as I, have grown used to them. The brain damage I suffered at birth has left me with cerebral palsy, which has affected my speech and motor control, and maneuvering the crowded school halls is difficult for me.

But what's a handicap anyway when God is at your side!

The morning went fast and at last I had English. I loved English, and I was glad when that period finally arrived. We were studying "Macbeth" and I was getting very involved in it. I listened to my teacher eagerly as I tried to take notes. My fingers moved stiffly and I couldn't write fast. Mr. Dell was talking about Lady Macbeth's role in the play.

"Don't you think she was trying to get a good name for herself?" I asked excitedly. "I'm sorry, Kathy," my teacher said, "we didn't hear all of that."

I hated to repeat, and I was very embarrassed. I told myself to try harder, talk slower, and not to worry about it. But I still felt badly. And yet, I thought, God must have a plan for me.

I went to lunch, still thinking about my teacher's views on "Macbeth." The cafeteria was crowded and people scurried from one place to another. I got my lunch and carried my tray to a table.

Then I heard voices and laughter behind me. "Have you ever seen her eat?" I looked at the boy who was talking. "She fell yesterday and I nearly died laughing." "Yeah, and she thinks that everybody likes her," his girl friend replied. They laughed again.

I tried to tell myself that they weren't talking about me, but I knew they were. "Love those who hurt you," I thought as I walked down the halls. Can I really do that?

I went to visit Mr. Dell. "Hello, Mr. Dell." I tried to sound as if nothing had happened.

"Well, Kathy, I really liked that essay you wrote," Mr. Dell always smiled.

"Gee, really?" I loved it when he complimented me. "Yes, you have a great deal of potential in the field of English."

I was thrilled to hear him say that.

"You'll do well in college English, and I want you to keep up your interest in it. You may even turn out to be a dumb teacher like me." We both laughed.

I started walking to my locker. Yes, maybe I will turn out to be a teacher, I thought.

Those kids in the cafeteria didn't really matter now. I had to go on. I had to prove to them, and even more to myself, that God had a plan for my life.

I knew that all the things that happened today would happen again, and I knew that I would have to face them again. Yet, I knew, too, that God would always give me strength.

Next — James Van Fleet, retired Army officer, tells how he learned to like a neighbor he disliked — by helping him.

Holy Week:

Intangible is what counts

(Fourth in a series)

By The Associated Press

A man raises his hand, taking an oath of office, and it is not the gesture that counts, but what it means. On a dining table, it is not the food itself that is important, but the purposes it serves.

All human reality is that way. Value is never in the sheer object or act, but in what they signify or accomplish. Movement has point only in its effects, time only in its content and a word only in the understanding of it.

It is always the meaning that counts, the intangible, underlying concern and response, which are not identifiable with the "thing" itself, but which are conveyed by it. Yet the "thing" often claims the surface spotlight.

"Illusions are the stuff of which our life is made," says French philosopher Andre Maurois.

In awareness of this elusive quality of the real goods of life, some theologians see the resurrection of Jesus as inherently a symbolic truth rather than a physical miracle within the limits of history.

Its reality, as they conceive it, is discernible only to the "eye of faith"—just as sound exists only in the hearing, beauty only in the beholder, and any fact, not simply as itself, but as an interpretation of it.

This is a widely influential view in seminary and academic circles today, attuned to a scientific environment, and generated by the work of such theologians as America's late Paul Tillich and Germany's Rudolf Bultmann.

To them the resurrection is an inward phenomenon, a living actuality to believers then and now, demanding commitment to it, but not an external, historical occurrence.

"Something unique happened," says Tillich, calling it a combination of tangible and intangible elements whose objective factual details are irrelevant.

It is "based on the experience of being grasped by the power of the New Being," he says, adding that this "is not dependent on the special symbols in which it is expressed."

Bultmann, who seeks to "demythologize" the gospel and extract its essential message from its prescientific packaging to make it intelligible to modern minds, sees the resurrection as wrapped in ancient imagery.

As he interprets it, the story of the empty tomb was a mythological method used to convey the truth that Christ had triumphed over death, even though His earthly body lay moldering away like that of any deceased person.

There was no element of deception in this, Bultmann says, since it was the normal way in which men of that time and culture expressed spiritual realizations in vivid terms.

He says that when the disciples proclaimed Jesus was risen, they meant He really had returned to life in their consciences and compelling motivations, a revitalization ultimately nurturing the entire Christian community through the centuries.

Bultmann maintains that the resurrection symbol has supreme significance, even though the symbol itself does not effectively communicate to an age which rejects departures from the natural cycle, so it must be translated into new terms.

However, he contends that Jesus's continuing "real presence" is a fact, and not merely a memory, and that His "new life" is genuinely realized in believers who accept the cross of their own inadequacy.

"If any man would come after me," Jesus said, "let him take up his cross daily and follow me ... Whoever loses his life for my sake, he will save it."

This calls for radical decision and commitment, Bultmann says, by which man surrenders the sin of self-sufficiency apart from God, thus being reconciled to God and one's own true self, and experiencing in his own existence the beginning of resurrection.

This puts the affair on a thoroughly existential basis, to be known personally, in the present.

While such adaptations of the gospel to contemporary attitudes seem to discount its historical framework, there are, nevertheless, indications in the accounts themselves that the resurrection is known only through faith.

"No human eyes saw the actual resurrection itself," says a new Catholic adult catechism. "It escapes historical observation. And the appearances of Jesus after His death were confined to His encounters with friends and disciples.

"It was not the eyes of the body but the eyes of faith which brought about the real recognition. A cold eye alone is not adequate to perceive truly the reality of Christ's resurrection, the new creation."

On this score, Scripture makes it clear that the risen Christ was seen only by those devoted to Him, the despairing apostles and other followers, and not by people generally or any of his opponents. It was not a public display.

Even his friends often did not recognize Him at first.

He appeared in "another form," Mark's gospel notes: He was different. There was a newness about Him. He was no longer simply what He was before.

When He first appeared to Mary Magdalene outside the tomb, she supposed He was the gardener. But when He spoke her name, she knew. "Rabboni!"

He asked her not to touch Him. "For I have not yet ascended to the Father." The implication was that He was in some transitional stage, on a threshold between time and eternity.

Two disciples walked seven miles to Emmaus with Him, conversing, but without recognizing Him until He broke bread with them. Then He vanished.

He could pass through solid matter, appearing at one point before the apostles in a locked room, indicating His presence even when unseen.

"Peace be with you ... Have you believed because you have seen Me? Blessed are those who have not seen and yet believe."

At His appearance on the shore of the Sea of Galilee, the apostles "did not know that it was Jesus" until after He called to them with some fishing advice. Thereupon one exclaimed in surprise, "It is the Lord!"

Even then, some were dubious and disconcerted at the change in Him. This obviously was no mere return to the ordinary state of life, but a profound transformation, no longer dependent, as Paul says, on "flesh and blood."

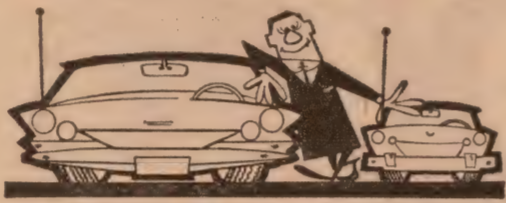

It also was an inclusively psycho-physical event, involving both spirit and body in some entirely novel way, although His body was not in its same earthly condition. Visibility was not necessary in His new life, and He could be seen by others only at His initiative.

"He revealed himself," Scripture notes. "He appeared." Frequently the resurrection has been presented erroneously as a simple physical resuscitation, as in the case of Lazarus or Jairus's daughter, who were revived only to live out normal lives. But this was drastically different.

The risen Christ overran physical limitations, yet was capable of manifesting Himself in the physical order. He was continuous with it, yet disengaged from it. He transcended history, yet was identifiable within it.

The fragmentary clues suggest the interrelationship of matter and energy, and the possibility of conversion of one into the other, a process formerly ruled out by scientific axiom until nuclear physics forced a modification.

The "new man," Scripture calls Him, "the new Adam," the start of a new heritage in history.

Ford letter preserved

DEARBORN (AP)—Since the scrap of paper was signed "Henry Ford" it was saved from the incinerator when an employee of the Dearborn schools cleaned out an old vault.

"I wish to acknowledge receipt of the bell used in the old Miller School House which I had the privilege of attending in my early days," Ford's letter, dated Dec. 1, 1920, said. "I can assure you of my genuine appreciation of your kindness in saving this for me... and will endeavor to make such use of it as will be fitting for its lasting memory."

The letter was given to the Henry Ford Museum and an officer said Wednesday it might be placed in the museum library or in the replica of the gray frame Miller School.

United Methodist, Free Methodist, Immanuel Baptist, Metropolitan Memorial Baptist, and Salvation Army.

Also Samaria Lutheran, St. Alexis Catholic, St. John the Baptist Catholic, St. Luke's Episcopal, St. Mark's Lutheran, St. Matthew's United Methodist and Second Baptist.

The Forest Ave. Baptist Church will hold special services from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Brother Harold Johnson will speak on "It is Finished."

At the Monroe St. Church of God services from noon until 3 p.m., the Rev. Fred L. Davis and ministers will speak on the "Seven Last Words."

At the Wesley Temple, services will be held from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. The Rev. D. L.

Baughey will speak on "Sun-down at Noon." Three forest-hewn crosses will be erected on a platform to depict the event of Calvary.

The Belleville Zion Missionary Church has set services for 1:30 p.m. The 1-hour commemoration will include special music and a message by the Rev. Donald Crocker.

The York Baptist Church, Calvary Baptist and Milan Baptist are sponsoring a 2-day program at the Milan Baptist Church. Services tonight and tomorrow begin at 7:30 p.m. The program includes a Gospel song service with the combined choirs of the three churches and guest minister, the Rev. Howard Sugden from Lansing.

The Saline Community Good Friday Service will be held in the United Church of Christ from 12:30 to 2:30 p.m.

In Ann Arbor two Good Friday services will be held under the auspices of the Ann Arbor-Washtenaw Council of Churches.

The downtown service at the First Methodist Church will be held from noon until 3 p.m. while services in the Arborland Mall community room are set for 12:30 to 1:30 p.m.

At both services recognition will be given that Good Friday marks the first anniversary of the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.

Dr. G. Merrill Lenox, director of the church council, is supervising both Ann Arbor community services.

In his annual Good Friday message Dr. Lenox reminds the Christian community that Friday is a day of penitence, self-examination, and redemption—a solemn day everywhere.

He said that Good Friday commemorates the sufferings of Christ for all mankind and has special meaning today when our nation is torn with internal strife and tortured with the tragedy of war.

Bruins, Leafs reconstruct Boston Tea Party

Toronto's Pat Quinn bangs into star Boston defenseman Bobby Orr (4) and gets an elbowing penalty during the second period of last night's playoff game. The check sent Orr, who had been skating up the ice with his head down, to the ice, flat on his back (right) and he had to be assisted off the ice. Quinn, although not injured, was not much better off however as he converses with some of the Boston fans (right) before he had to be taken out of the penalty box because of the Boston fans trying to hit him. (AP Photos)

NHL playoffs have rollicking start; Boston clobbers Toronto in slugfest

By The Associated Press
Explosive Phil Esposito and the rest of the short-fuse Boston Bruins gave Toronto a dose of their speciality—plenty of fists and plenty of goals. The boisterous Bruins stormed to a 10-0 romp over the hapless Maple Leafs in the opening game of their first round National Hockey League best-of-7 Stanley Cup playoff.

In other openers, Montreal tripped New York 3-1, St. Louis downed Philadelphia 5-2 and Los Angeles outlasted Oakland 5-4 in overtime.

Esposito, who set a scoring record with an incredible 126 regular season points, tied a playoff mark with six points on four goals and two assists, leading Boston's romp. Johnny Bucyk and Derek Sanderson also had two goals apiece for the Bruins, who set a record with 303 goals during the regular season.

The Bruins, who revel in tough stuff, got plenty of action from the Maple Leafs. Referee John Ashley tagged Toronto with 76 minutes in penalties including 10 minors, five majors and three misconducts. The Bruins were well-behaved by comparison with only 56 minutes on 10 minors, four majors and one misconduct.

Pat Quinn, a rookie defenseman for the Leafs, decked Boston's Bobby Orr with an elbow that left the Bruin defenseman stretched out on the ice. When he got to the penalty box, Quinn became embroiled with fans and the Leaf bench emptied to join him in the battle. Police had to break up that confrontation.

Later, Forbes Kennedy took on Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers and all he got for his trouble was a minor, two majors and game misconduct as well as some lumps from John McKenzie, who came to Cheevers' aid.

Montreal and New York had a much more sedate game with tough checking and strong goaltending dominating until John Ferguson's goal won it for the Canadiens with less than seven minutes left.

Ferguson shoveled a short shot past Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin just six seconds before the end of a Ranger penalty and snapped a 1-1 tie. Then Henri Richard's carom shot slid 150 feet into an empty Ranger net for the clincher with 40 seconds left and Giacomin off for an extra attacker.

Montreal's Jacques Lemaire and New York's Jean Ratelle had traded goals in the first two periods.

Jacques Plante, pressed into action when St. Louis goalie Glenn Hall pulled a hamstring in his right leg, surrendered a quick goal but then settled down to ease the Blues past Philadelphia.

Hall, who is expected to miss tonight's second game, was hurt at 10:48 of the first period with St. Louis' leading on goals by Ab McDonald and Tim Eccelstone.

Bill Sutherland beat Plante at 12:13 on a power play but then the Blues' goalie took charge and goals by Larry Keenan, Camille Henry and Terry Gray carried St. Louis to a 5-1 edge before Dick Cherry's late goal for the Flyers.

Ted Irvine's goal at 19 seconds of sudden death overtime enabled Los Angeles to edge Oakland. Gene Ubriaco of the Seals had sent the game into the extra period by scoring with less than three minutes to play in regulation time.

Ed Joyal and Gary Croteau collected two goals each for the Kings.

Don't worry, Says Mayo

Tigers' manager still calm After 11-3 pasting by Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—"Let's not go pressing the panic button," said Manager Mayo Smith Wednesday. He's manager of the Detroit Tigers which had dropped another game to the St. Louis Cardinals, the latest 11-3.

"Let's not get all worked up about this," Smith said after the game.

"Earl, (starter Earl Wilson) was coming in a little bit high all afternoon and when that happens a pitcher is going to get hurt."

"He said the mound was too low and it felt as if he were throwing the ball uphill," Smith stated.

The Cardinals tapped Wilson for eight runs in five innings and then added three more off Mike Kilkeny, a fine rookie prospect. The Tigers' pitching staff owns an earned run average of 5.07, low compared to Wilson's 8.40.

"It's just something he's (Wilson) going to have to work out," explained Manager Smith. "The situation isn't as bad as it looks."

A bright spot for Detroit in the game was Norm Cash's two-run home run off winning pitcher Bob Gibson in the first inning. Willie Horton doubled in the fourth and Bill Freehan singled him home to tie the game 3-3. But the Cardinals rapped Wilson for five runs in their half of the inning and the game was virtually decided.

Reed leads New York Past Bullets

By The Associated Press
Willis Reed did his homework and as a result the Baltimore Bullets are wearing the National Basketball Association's dunce cap today.

Reed, burly 6-foot-10 center of the New York Knickerbockers, poured in a club playoff record 43 points Wednesday night, pacing the third-place Knicks to a 115-108 triumph over the pennant-winning Bullets that completed a four-game sweep of their Eastern Division semifinal series.

The Knicks move into the Eastern finals against the survivor of the Boston-Philadelphia seat, which resumes Friday night in Philadelphia.

In Wednesday night's only other game, Los Angeles squared its Western semifinal with San Francisco at two games apiece with a 103-88 victory. They return to Los Angeles Friday night.

The other Western series continues Friday night with Atlanta at San Diego. The Hawks lead 2-1.

Reed hit on 15 of 29 shots as he erased Cazzie Russell's Knicks playoff standard of 40 points.

"I stopped him in the first two games," said Baltimore's Ray Scott of Reed, "but he's a great player and he goes home and does his homework. He studies the man who's guarding him."

"In the first two games I had him going to my strength, away from the basket, but tonight he used his great strength more. He moved me closer to the basket and then, when he gets off, there's nothing you can do to stop the guy."

Scott limited Reed to 35 points in the first two games, but was overwhelmed for 35 in the third game before Wednesday night's explosion.

"If you get the ball in the right spot at the right moment nobody can stop you," Reed explained.

It was the first time the Knicks have ever won four straight playoff games while the proud Bullets, who climbed from last place to first in one year, became the first division champion to be swept in four games.

Baltimore stunned the Knicks by scoring the first 12 points. But the New Yorkers trailed by only 29-25 after one period and it was nip-and-tuck until they went ahead to stay 77-75 on Bill Bradley's basket.

Reed then took over. His bucket gave the Knicks an 86-82 lead and he added seven more points as they increased the spread to 99-87, then fought off a late Baltimore comeback. Westley Unseld and Earl Monroe split 50 points for the losers.

Los Angeles ripped off 16 straight points at the start of the second period and easily drubbed the cold-shooting Warriors. Jerry West scored 22 of his game high 36 points in the first half and also impressed with his defense.

"Our team defense, which helped us all season long, was really magnificent tonight," said Walt Chamberlain of the Lakers. "West really played a great game on offense, but people tend to overlook the fact that West is so good on defense. He was all over the floor tonight."

The Lakers led 25-16 after the first period and sent it soaring to 41-16 before Joe Ellis broke the spell with a pair of free throws. But Los Angeles pushed its lead to as much as 28 points before taking a 57-35 halftime advantage.

Rookie Fritz Williams paced the Warriors with 16 points. Highscoring Jeff Mullins, injured in the third game, managed only two points.

LEW ALCINDOR ... signs million dollar contract

Alcindor Signs pact With Bucks

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — The bidding war for the services of UCLA's Lew Alcindor has officially ended with the 7-foot-11½ center signing a Milwaukee Bucks contract and announcing he'll change his style of play.

With contentment etched on his face, a poised Alcindor autographed a document Wednesday that would make him a millionaire and, reportedly, a part owner in the National Basketball Association expansion team.

Terms of the contract were disclosed by John Erickson, the Bucks' vice president and general manager, who said "This contract is very fair."

Law said he chose the NBA's Milwaukee "because their offer was more stable and more lucrative than one by the American Basketball Association."

Brave wrestlers honored At annual awards banquet

Co-captains Allen Gray and Clifton Smith were among four Ypsilanti High wrestlers honored last night at the annual wrestling banquet at the high school.

Gray was given the outstanding senior award by Coach Roy Wilbanks. This is the first year the trophy has been given and Wilbanks announced that it is to go to the senior who makes the biggest contribution to the team.

The Braves' 112 pounder was a shoo-in for the award after struggling early to get to the weight and then getting back down and in shape after a serious internal injury.

Smith was honored with the Bob Arvin award, a memorial plaque named for a former Brave state champion who was killed in Vietnam in 1967.

Wolverines' drill 'typical'

ANN ARBOR — University of Michigan head football Coach Glenn "Bo" Schembechler called yesterday's drills "a typical second day practice session."

Which, by interpretation, means it wasn't that good. It was marked by mistakes like dropped balls.

The Wolverines, who opened Spring practice at Ferry Field Tuesday, worked on technique — on execution of plays —

Wednesday.
Under good weather conditions, the first-year Michigan coach also worked putting in new offensive plays. He used mainly three boys at quarterback — Don Moorehead of South Haven, Jim Betts of Cleveland and Bill Berutti of Franklin, Ohio. He's looking for a replacement for Dennis Brown. All are juniors.
Nearly 100 candidates reported to the practice.

The other two trophies went to Scott Hines for the top academic achievement on the team and to Larry Rice as the squad's outstanding wrestler. The 133-pounder had a 40-match winning streak and finished the season with a 45-2 mark, including third place in the state.

Detroit Catholic Central Coach Mike Rodriguez, the guest speaker, also paid special tribute to Rice for his courageous comeback in the state tourney after losing an early match by default. He also said that Ypsilanti was "the hotbed of wrestling in this part of the state."

Rodriguez was recently voted Coach of the Year after his team won the state title.

All of the speakers expressed satisfaction that three of the Braves' matmen who were in the state tourney will be back next season. In addition to Rice will be junior Marty Spalding and sophomore Nehemiah Weston.

Eye title, competition:

Thinclads start at Eastern

Winning the NAIA outdoor track title will be a little more difficult a task than was winning the indoor crown.

That's the sobering note with which Eastern Michigan track coach Bob Parks will take his Huron thinclads into the outdoors for the start of the spring season.

"The schools with indoor tracks can get some breaks — pick up a few easy points here and there — during the indoor meet," Parks explains. "It's a little different outdoors, though. Those southern schools are really ready in June."

Last year the Hurons, who have twice now taken the laurels at the NAIA indoor meet, finished third in the outdoor nationals in Albuquerque, N.M. And Parks isn't predicting any better fate when the current year's extravaganza unfolds June 6-7 in Billings, Montana.

These big meets can be won and lost in picking the spots where the "easy" points are up for grabs. But, Parks points out, finances are a consideration and "you have to take 10 boys along to find three of those spots. It can be costly."

Parks and assistant A.I. Pingel will be working members of the squad into a couple of "new" events — new to the extent that Eastern never participated in them on a regular basis before — the steeplechase and hammer.

Chief hope in the steeplechase rests with Dave Campbell, a freshman from Melbourne, Australia, who has run the gruelling event back home.

The hammer will be in the hands of freshman John Grayson of Southfield and sophomore John Smiley of Redford St. Mary's.

In a couple of other field events, the discus and javelin, Parks is enthusiastic that Eastern will be, for the first time, competitive on a national level. A couple of Pennsylvanians are making Parks confident that some of EMU's longest-standing records will go by the boards early in the season.

Mitch Yanyanin of Freedom is expected to obliterate the discus mark that has stood since 1925. Meanwhile, Bill Kouvolos of Ambridge should erase the javelin standard that has remained since 1941.

Parks considers the Hurons to be a "sort of well-balanced team." He detects a "notable weakness" in the dashes.

Strongest point could be the pole vault, where "we don't have anybody really spectacular but have five kids over 14 feet," the coach says. Best in the event are Larry Biskner and Fred Rool, who hit 15 feet.

The Hurons once again will be challenged with a strong schedule, beginning this weekend with the Kentucky Relays. In that event, they'll compete with about five Big Ten schools, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and numerous Mid-American Conference schools, Parks says.

Other big dates on the EMU track calendar are the University of Michigan Relays, the Ohio State Relays, the Drake Relays and a May 17 home date with Notre Dame.

Roosevelt wins First track meet

Bart Packard won three individual events and Dave Scott two others to pace Roosevelt to victory in its first track meet this season, yesterday. The Rough Riders topped Manchester 65-53.

Two-miler John Gable, with a winning time of 10:52.4 was only .4 off of the school record. Packard won the long jump in addition to the low and high hurdles while Scott claimed first place in the shot put and high jump.

Clendenon Signs pact With Expos

By the Associated Press
Don Clendenon is back with Montreal, Bill White is back with St. Louis and Bo Belinsky is back in the news. Those developments overshadowed the action on the exhibition baseball playing fields Wednesday.

Clendenon ended his brief retirement, signed a two-year contract with the Expos and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said the confusing Montreal-Houston trade could be settled today with the Expos sending the Astros a "player or players."

The Cardinals reacquired first baseman White from the Philadelphia Phillies for infielder Jerry Buchek and catcher Jim Hutton. White will be primarily a pinch hitter.

Belinsky was given a mild sedative at a St. Petersburg, Fla., and sent back to his hotel after complaining of weakness.

"I'm sure this has been a result of all the stress and strain Bo has gone through trying to make another big league club," said Dr. William Jefferey of Mound Park Hospital. The left-handed pitcher was cut by the St.

Louis Cardinals a few days ago.

Los Angeles shelled Houston 10-5 in a night exhibition, while in afternoon games St. Louis walloped Detroit 11-3, Atlanta crushed Cincinnati 10-0, Kansas City edged Philadelphia 2-0, San Francisco crushed Cleveland 9-2, Minnesota nipped Boston 5-4 in 10 innings.

Also the Chicago White Sox blanked the Chicago Cubs 2-0, the New York Yankees took Washington 2-1 in 10 innings, Oakland downed San Diego 8-4, California beat Seattle 6-4, Pittsburgh whipped the New York Mets 7-2 and Montreal turned back the Mets' B team 2-1.

The Dodgers broke a 2-2 tie with three runs in the fifth inning and went on to defeat the Astros. Don Drysdale started for the Dodgers but left in the fourth inning with a strained right arm.

Ron Reed, Ken Johnson and George Stone limited Cincinnati to three hits in the Braves' triumph. It was the Reds' third consecutive shutout.

Cookie Rojas' first-inning single off Dave Morehead was the only Philadelphia hit as Morehead, Tom Burgmeier and Dave Wickersham blanked the Phillies for Kansas City.

Willie McCovey socked two home runs, one a grand slam, plus a double and single in the Giants' rout of Cleveland, called after seven innings by mutual agreement. Bobby Bonds also connected for the Giants.

Harmon Killebrew slugged his first spring homer but the Twins needed George Mitterwald's two-out, bases-loaded single in the 10th inning to shade the Red Sox.

Sammy Ellis outpitched Bill Hands as the White Sox topped the Cubs in a game shortened to seven innings by rain. Frank Fernandez hammered a 10th-inning homer to nudge the Yankees by the Senators.

Dick Green's three-run homer paced Oakland over San Diego. Dick Stuart's two-run homer, his fourth of the spring, helped California down Seattle.

The Pirates pushed across four runs in the fifth inning to overtake the Mets. The Expos knocked off the Mets' B team despite five strong innings by sore-shouldered Jerry Koosman.

Ypsilanti High prospects Hinge on pitching success

Pitching will have to be the key as Ypsilanti High opens the baseball season Tuesday afternoon.

The Braves will be depending on the strong left arm of All-Sauk Trail League hurler Jim Horton. The senior southpaw had an excellent season last year with a 10-3 record. In addition, he had a 1.48 earned run average and struck out 126 batters in only 87 innings.

Also returning are first baseman Bob Rockwell, outfielders Gary Bickley and John Wilson and second baseman Rick Coker. They will also be responsible for the majority of the Braves' offensive punch — in addition to Horton, last year's second leading hitter.

Coach Bob Moffett will be getting a good deal of help from some underclassmen in his attempt to improve on last year's 16-8 record. The Braves finished second in the conference with a 5-3 mark and, in addition to Horton and Rockwell, have only three seniors — Leroy Meade, Gary Wike and Blayne Miriani.

Newcomers rated a good chance of breaking into the starting lineup are infielders

Lance Allward, Pat Kelly and Bob Moffett, Jr., and outfielder-pitcher Steve Rhodin.

Rhodin, a sophomore, already established as a top athlete in basketball, is said to have a strong left arm on the mound as well as being a good outfielder and switch hitter.

The Braves' season begins Tuesday against Plymouth. Today's game was postponed.

Dearborn, last year's conference champion, still looms as the team to beat.

Hockey star Is honored

HOUGHTON (AP) — Teammates have named junior Ken Desjardine as the outstanding defenseman of the season for the Michigan Tech hockey team. The Huskies won the Western Collegiate Hockey Association title this year.

Central '9' defeated

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — bottom of the seventh, but seven walks, two sacrifice flies and a throwing error gave the Central Michigan baseball team a comfortable lead in the seventh inning Wednesday and lost a 7-6 baseball game to Memphis. Gary Szalka and Dick Central led 5-2 going into the Watkins homered for CMU.

Greensboro tournament With large purse begins

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP) — As the $100,000 Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament got under way today, the words of wily old Sam Snead were worthy of note this Easter weekend.

The 56-year-old former Virginia hillbilly who lists 130 tournament victories since 1936, by his own count, surveyed the field and drawled, "One of those rabbits could grab some of that cabbage this week just like Bunky Henry did at Miami last Sunday."

He was referring to the

Haywood Tops Hurons' 'Foe' team

Olympian Spencer Haywood of the University of Detroit and George Thompson of Marquette topped the balloting as Eastern Michigan's basketball players voted for an all-opponent team.

Also chosen were Ted McClain of Tennessee State, Marzine Moore of Ball State and John Irwin of Eastern New Mexico, the team that beat EMU and commenced to win the NAIA national championship recently.

Players chosen to Eastern's second all-opponent team were Travis Grant of Kentucky State, Ken Davis of Georgetown, Mike Copper of Indiana State, Jim Plump of Northern Arizona and Len Myers of Arizona.

Michigan Opens slate Saturday

ANN ARBOR — Michigan's baseball team opens a regular 31-game schedule here Saturday against the University of Detroit and Coach Moby Benedict feels he has solved several questions already.

The Wolverines completed their spring trip to Arizona with a 3-8 mark, but most of the competition was provided by two of the top five rated teams in the nation, Arizona and Arizona State.

"We were able to see just what we have in the way of talent and it looks pretty good," Benedict said. One surprise was the catching where Capt. Pete Titone, always extremely capable with the glove, developed into a solid hitter.

Titone hit .365 on the trip and sophomore catcher Tom Lundstedt showed fine promise. The outfield of John Arvai (.375) and John Kraft (.326 with three home runs) is considered solid.

The brightest spot among the Wolverines, however, was Glenn Redmon. The 175-pound third baseman led the team with a .386 average and was outstanding in the field. The senior from Allen Park was a member of the U.S. baseball team that played in connection with the Olympic games.

Two sophomore lefthanders, Jim Burton and Tom Fleszar, won all three games with Fleszar picking up two. Burton fanned 20 in 18 innings. Gerry Christman has won the third starting job.

Club names Tennis pro

A former Roosevelt and Eastern Michigan University tennis player, Joe McCulloch, will take over duties as tennis pro at the Chippewa Hills Swim Club this spring.

McCulloch, currently a graduate assistant at EMU, replaces Mrs. Mary VanDusen in the capacity. Mrs. VanDusen has moved to Washington.

McCulloch, who lives at 103 N. Adams St., will teach tennis to both youngsters and adults, and he'll conduct tournaments during the summer. He may also coach a small competitive team.

The club, which is located on Golfside Drive, opens May 17.

Brave netters Whip Glenn In opener

WESTLAND — Ypsilanti High got its spring sports program off to a flying start here yesterday when the Braves' tennis team whipped Westland Glenn, 5-2.

The score is computed on the basis of one point for each match win — there are four singles matches and three doubles.

The Braves split the singles action and swept the doubles. No. 1 singles Rick Falstad rallied after losing his first set to defeat the Rockets' Bob Miller. Then No. 2 singles Mike Ryan took Bob Morton in straight sets.

JV winners for Ypsilanti High were Steve Rood and Steve Clark.

Nixon to throw first pitch:

Baseball season begins Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two rookies, Richard Nixon and Ted Williams, will dominate the starting line-up as baseball ushers in its centennial season Monday.

President Nixon is expected to toss out the first ball in traditional opening ceremonies before Williams makes his debut as Washington's manager against the New York Yankees.

A sellout throng of 45,000 is forecast for the first test of whether the stumbling Senators can find new magic under the Hall of Fame hero who is the game's greatest living hitter.

It has been seven years since the Senators won a Presidential Opener. They haven't even scored a run on opening day since 1966.

Williams, lured out of his long retirement to become baseball's first million-dollar manager, steered the Senators through 11 losses in a row against American League rivals in spring training before they finally whipped an expansion club.

The former Boston belter begins the year with virtually the same Senators squad that struggled through 1968 to rack up the worst losing record in the majors. But for the Yankees, one familiar face is missing.

As noticeable as the return of Williams will be the absence of Mickey Mantle, the last of the Yankees' immortal sluggers who retired at the start of spring training after 17 seasons.

New York is expected to name Mel Stottlemyre, its 21-game winner, as starting pitcher. Stottlemyre blanked the Senators on two hits in the 1967 Presidential Opener.

Camilo Pascual, aging ace of the Senators' staff, already has been tabbed to start again for Washington. Pascual has been getting the ceremonial call off and on since 1956.

The annual Presidential Opener will herald the beginning of a season of change.

Rookies get loot

Detroit Tiger rookies Jon Warden, Daryl Patterson, Wayne Comer and Tom Matchick collected a winner's share in their first World Series.

with a shrunken strike zone and lower mound to help hitters, an expanded league with 12 teams plus a new divisional setup, and a new baseball commissioner, Bowie Kuhn, who used to be a scoreboard boy in Washington's old ballpark.

Nixon will hurl the first pitch in a stadium renamed for slain presidential candidate Robert F. Kennedy.

Nixon's first start as President comes 16 years after he was rained out as a relief pitcher while vice president under Dwight D. Eisenhower. He won another substitute start as the Senators beat Baltimore 9-2 in the 1959 opener.

Ecorse, Battle Creek Favored in Relays

EAST LANSING (AP) — Battle Creek Central in Class A and Ecorse in Class B will be the teams to beat at the Lansing State Journal-Spartan Relays this weekend at Michigan State University.

More than 2,500 prepsters from 67 Class A schools and 70 Class B schools are expected.

Bloomfield Hills Cranbrook is the defending B champion but has to watch out for Ecorse.

Ecorse moved up into the Class A rankings last year and placed second to Central. This year Ecorse is back again in Class B.

Central has taken the A team championship the last two years.

The Class B schools will run Friday. The Class A schools will take over Saturday at Jenison Fieldhouse. There will be 13 events for each plus some special relays for a smattering of Class C entries.

'Trees, Inc.' eye future

The Michigan Shade Tree Research Foundation, Inc. was founded in response to the increase in suburban living and the resulting loss of natural forest cover.

This development, along with "downtown" and highway beautification plans, created a demand for shade and ornamental trees and brought additional problems in tree production and management to the fore.

The foundation learned that the individual "treeman" has neither the time nor facilities to carry out research on such blights as the Dutch Elm disease.

It was decided that the greatest value can be derived in the shortest time by one organization sponsoring research projects to meet the needs of people interested in trees.

The foundation, under its elected Board of Directors, determines what areas of tree research need study, allocate funds to the institution (state university or agricultural experimentation station) best capable of the study and make the information available for distribution throughout the industry.

The directors, who represent geographical areas in the state, recently elected new officers. Theodore Haskell of the Lansing Department of Parks and Recreation is president, Richard Fanning of the Detroit Department of Parks and Recreation is vice president and Victor Horvath of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources will serve as secretary-treasurer.

Among the seven persons filling director seats are James Smith of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority in the southeastern Michigan region and Gordon Dennis, of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne. Also at the election meeting, Donald Juchartz of the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service in Wayne and Miss Genevieve Gillette, an Ann Arbor landscape architect, were among those honored as retiring directors.

The organization which uses "For concentrated and coordinated research" as its slogan deals with such problems as Oak Wilt, Maple and Ash Dieback, Sycamore Anthracnose, and Chlorosis of Pin Oak as well as Dutch Elm disease.

The foundation noted that the Dutch Elm blight alone has cost the people of Michigan approximately $8 1/2 million for control and removal within the past year.

They stress that tree growers are still fighting the disease with the same methods that were used ten years ago.

Foundation data shows that there are about five million elm shade trees on public and private property in the state. They set an aesthetic value of nearly $71 million on those trees, and they say the means to keep them alive and thriving is through research.

The organization has drawn endorsement from garden clubs, golf course superintendents, state horticulturalists, foresters, botanists, nurserymen and the Metropolitan Detroit Landscape Association.

Small glads win Favor in big way

There has been a revolution going on quietly in the gladiolus world and it is all to the advantage of the homeowner. The 4 to 6-foot super giants of the exhibition world have been giving way to small and moderate-sized varieties that home owners can use in their houses and gardens. Already this is sparking renewed interest and a revival in the gladiolus as a flower to grow.

And this is rightly so, for they are among the easiest of plants to grow. Prepare the soil well by spading or forking it at least a spade deep and incorporating two inches or so of humus plus five pounds of vegetable garden fertilizer per 100 square feet, with a lime if necessary.

Then plant the bulbs (corms), bud-side up five inches deep and six inches apart. Traditionally it has been the practice to plant in rows — for cutting. Now a trend is beginning to plant them in clusters or groups of 6 to 25 around the garden.

Planted this way they supply accent points in annual borders, brighten up perennial plantings in summer; along walks, and even in bays between shrubs.

Likewise, discriminating gardeners are beginning to plant them more often with all one variety — or at most two colors — to complement each other — in a clump. This produces more effective color masses and creates a better effect in the garden.

Upkeep is simple. Water them well once a week in dry spells, keep all weeds hoed out and, if necessary, spray with any good all-purpose insecticide. And before the ground freezes dig the bulbs up and store in a cool place.

Planner is Garden-wise

Tradition says Fall is the time to think about spring-blooming bulbs but the wise gardener does his planning now. Then he knows what he wants and is ready to go ahead when Fall comes say the garden experts.

The first thing is to look at other gardens and public or demonstration gardens. This will give you a chance to get some ideas to adapt to your own garden. Make a note of the kinds you like, their colors, when they bloom and where and how you can use them. Also notice which you can plant together and with what other plants you can combine them.

Flowers are nostalgia...

Not so long ago seed catalogs were illustrated with drawings like these instead of the color photographs used today. Yet there is much charm in these sketches from the turn-of-the-century. The kinds of flowers are still the same, although their forms, colors and growth habits have been changed by plant breeders. Now we have double nasturtiums with flowers carried above the foliage; huge pansies without veins; double brilliantly colored verbenas and petunias single, double, frilled and unfilled, one hue or bi-colored.

Con men 'turn on' for the green

Special from Mich. Nurserymen's Assn.
LANSING — Spring is the season when the miracle plant con men emerge from under ground along with Japanese beetles and other pests to prey on home gardeners and landscapers.

"Don't be taken in by these racketeers" is the warning sounded by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, and Agriculture Director B. Dale Ball and the Michigan Association of Nurserymen.

The public is warned against high pressure salesmen and mail order advertisers using fancy names for ordinary shrubs and plants and making exaggerated claims for their plant material.

Beware of glowing word descriptions and faked photographs of climbing vine peaches, giant climbing strawberries, 1,000 giant red roses on a single bush (unknown to horticulturists), and flowering shade trees that grow roof high in a single year; including the "Flowering Maple" that turns out to be the common silver maple with most inconspicuous blooms.

"All consumer complaints, including verbal misrepresentations are reviewed by the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office, and appropriate action is taken, said Assistant Attorney General George V. Warren. "It is our experience that purchasers who deal with established local merchants can see what they are buying and are not misled by photographs or lurid verbal pictures."

"One cannot expect to get high quality stock at ridiculously low prices," said Dean F. Lovitt, chief of the plant industry division of the Dept. of Agriculture. "Purchasers should always demand a certificate of inspection with the stock as their assurance that it has passed inspection for insects and disease. Local nurserymen usually are familiar with local conditions and the varieties likely to do well in an area, and their advice can be helpful" he said.

Not to be confused with the miracle plant scheme is the legitimate "instant" flowering tree which is a new variation of an idea started several years ago with the discovery of the petunia tree. The actual innovation is old hat to garden buffs.

Moss, burlap or fiberglass screen is used to line a wire-screen mesh on some sort of tall cylinder arrangement. This is filled with a mixture of peat moss or other lightweight planter mix.

Once your chosen plant takes hold, regular watering, feeding and pest control methods should bring an unusual and attractive season-long plant display.

No miracle and no scheme here, just a combination of imagination and garden engineering.

Lawn weeds Are 2 types

Pesty lawn weeds fall into two categories: grasses and broadleaf weeds. Weed grasses include crabgrass, dallis grass, goosegrass and foxtail. Some broadleaf weeds are chickweed, henbit, plantain and round ivy. Both types can be controlled with modern Weedone type chemicals and good lawn care practices which include: proper cutting, watering and feeding, report agronomists.

Beekeepers forum set, Top 'apiarist' named

The annual Beekeepers Seminar arranged by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service with the assistance of the Southeastern Michigan Beekeepers Association will be held April 12 at the Rawsonville Ford UAW Hall on Textile Rd.

The seminar brings together a day-long program of educational movies, speeches and demonstrations. Resource persons will be from various areas of Michigan and also out-of-state.

Nearly 200 apiarists are expected to attend the meeting which is designed not only for the professional, but for the amateur apiarist who may have one or two colonies or is planning to acquire his first hive.

There are more than 1,200 registered apiaries in this 6-county region. Most of them are hobby-type operations.

At a recent meeting held during Farmers' Week at MSU the Michigan Beekeepers Association named its "Beekeeper of the Year" and elected its 1969 slate of officers.

Mrs. George Seidelman of Ionia, was elected the top beekeeper.

Mrs. Seidelman, who retired as secretary of the MBA Jan. 1 after serving in this capacity for 18 years, was honored for her contribution as secretary and for her work with the Michigan Honey Queen program and other honey promotion efforts.

Jack Engelhardt of Ann Arbor will succeed Mrs. Seidelman as secretary.

Mrs. Seidelman will continue to be active in the association, serving on the executive committee as representative of District 4 which includes Ottawa, Kent, Ionia, Montcalm, Muskegon, Newaygo and Mecosta counties. She will also continue her efforts to promote Michigan honey.

James DeKorne, Grand Rapids, was re-elected president; Stuart Goodfellow, Sparta, vice president; and Raymond Montague, Ovid, was elected as treasurer.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

★ By SYDNEY OMARR ★

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY
"The wise man controls his destiny . . . Astrology points the way."

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Some essential financial matters are obscured. Know this and seek co-operation from mate, partner, legal source. What you think you see may not be there for long. Be conservative with cash.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent on action which improves image. Be aware of public relations. Be sure you are accurately quoted. Show key people that you have a following. Do plenty of listening, observing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some who served your needs now request aid. Adhere to golden rule. Also take care of your own health. Avoid excess. Throw off a burden which is not rightly your own.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You want to speculate. You feel lucky. You throw a dinner party. You buy special gift for child. It is that kind of day. You can be vibrant because the atmosphere is romantic.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Settle down. Time for experimentation is completed. Concentrate on building secure future. Accent on property, investment opportunities. Check details. Be thorough, observant.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stress on ability to concentrate on ideas. Important to take notes. Check records, instructions and directions. Better for social activity than for job requiring attention to details.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Break through red tape. Action occurs which proves of financial benefit. SCORPIO individual could prove instrumental. Learn rules before you break them. Be studious. Obtain added knowledge.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Association today with LIBRA person is of mutual benefit. Cycle high. You can successfully take initiative. Message received contains information you have been seeking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Seclusion may be necessary. Steer clear of spotlight. Private conference should be kept that way. Don't open door to interlopers. Key is to be discreet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Accents on friends, hopes, wishes. But you must make concession to practicality. Asking for too much could leave you empty handed. Know this and act accordingly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stress on advancement, fulfillment of ambitions. One in authority helps you get your way. Eliminate middle man. Go to the top. There is room for you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Turn dreams into realities. Enlarge horizons. Travel if necessary. Better to finish than to begin project. Some delay indicated due to communications mixup. Take philosophical view.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are direct, dynamic, a natural pioneer. You make domestic adjustment soon which could include change of residence.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Moon position favorable for fishing, planting.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

INTERVIEWED JUST AFTER his wife had obtained a divorce in Nevada, a Brooklyn resident confided to a reporter, "I say farewell to my erstwhile bride with mixed emotions: bliss and jubilation."

Joe Garagiola, who has cleaned up a tidy fortune on the lecture circuit retelling funny stories about the days when he was a big league baseball star, recalls one afternoon when he was catching a game for the Chicago Cubs. At the Chicago park, the walls enclosing the outfield are covered with ivy. In the third inning of this particular game there, the starting Cub pitcher has been so manhandled by the long-hitting Cardinals that Chicago's manager, Phil Cavaretta, strode to the mound to relieve him, explaining, "I hate to take you out on your birthday, Bob, but all my outfielders are getting poison ivy!"

Joe remembers another game where the starting pitcher objected strenuously to being taken out of the game. "Lemme face one more man," he begged the manager. "I know I can get that bum out." The flint-hearted manager reminded him, "You already proved that when he led off the inning."

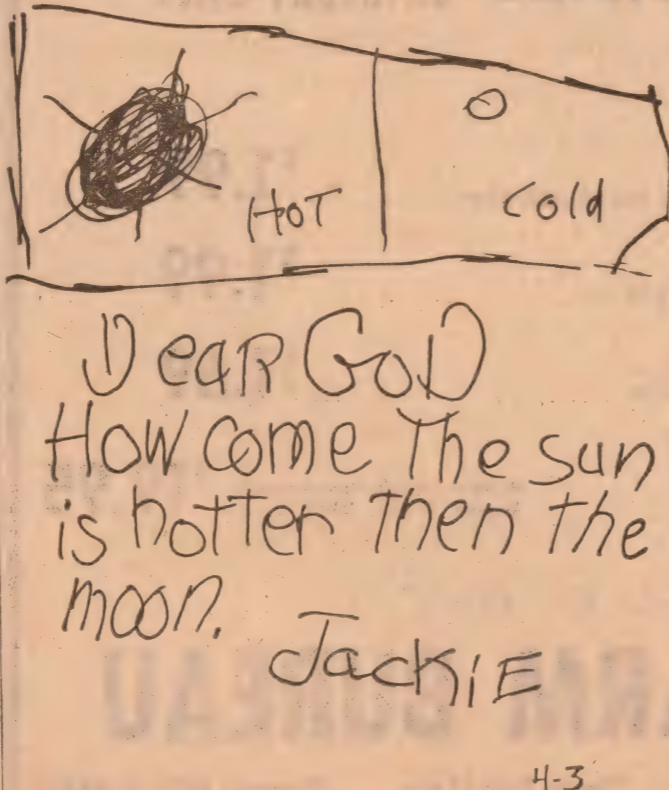

Oscar Levant tells about the kid in L.A. who loves television commercials. After one long, long Sunday he came to his father with a novel request. "Pop," he said, "I want bad breath."

DEAR ABBY:

Mom finds that sonny Is a double two-timer

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am really worried about my son in Vietnam. He's been there nearly a year and has four girls waiting for him back in the States.

He writes them all that he "loves" them and is going to marry them when he gets home. All these girls have sent him cigarettes, goodies, stationery, radios, watches and tapes. He tells them what he wants, and they send it.

These girls do not know each other, but they all telephone me when they hear from my son, and they read me parts of his letters. One girl in particular is lovely. She's asked me to help her with her "wedding" plans. Should I tell this girl what is going on? And should I tell my son I know what he's doing? Soldier's Mother

DEAR MOTHER: Don't tell the girl, but do tell your son that not only does he have four girls waiting for him, he may have four sets of parents waiting for him. But don't be surprised if he decides to sign up for another hitch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman in my late forties who has kept company for three years with a man of about 60. We had a sort of "understanding," but nothing definite was said about marriage.

Well, suddenly a 19-year-old kid turns up from out of nowhere, and this friend of mine has taken a shine to him. Now he says he is going to adopt him. Is this possible? Just Asking

DEAR JUST: Almost anything is possible. Adoption laws vary from state to state, but one thing is standard. Before anyone is allowed to adopt a child there will be a thorough investigation and a lot of questions asked.

DEAR ABBY: My husband came home one day with a ring bearing the emblem of his lodge. He had removed the gold wedding band I had given him and replaced it with this lodge ring. I expressed my hurt and disappointment, but it did no good. He continued to wear the lodge ring. When I tried to explain how I felt about it, he emphatically told me he didn't want to hear any more about it.

Soon after this he got another heavy ring for his right hand, also with the lodge emblem on it. He wears both rings every day. I think it is nice that he is so proud of his affiliation with this lodge that he wears a symbol of it on each hand, but that wedding band is also an important symbol to me. It was a constant reminder of love, our home, and our children. Do you think he is trying to tell me something? Hurt

DEAR HURT: I think he has indeed told you something. I also think he is either incredibly insensitive, or needlessly unkind. One wonders if his left hand knows what his right hand is wearing.

DEAR ABBY: A number of our young people engage in experimental sex. It may be that this practice results in part from the temptation to use people and love things. That philosophy has long been bankrupt. More satisfying living results when we love people and use things. This attitude finds something missing in casual sex. Educator

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Press and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DR. BROTHERS:

Separation may strain New marriage too much

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My boyfriend and I are both eighteen. He is about to go into the Army and wants to get married before he leaves. We have been dating for six months and spend every possible moment together but I'm not sure we are ready to get married. He gets angry when I say I'm not sure about getting married and accuses me of wanting to go out with other boys when he's away. — J.A.

Dear Miss A: Your doubts about marriage at this time in your lives should not be discounted. The strain of a prolonged separation upon a new marriage can be extremely great, especially if husband and wife are young.

Many couples find themselves propelled by circumstances into a marriage that they ordinarily would have delayed. The fear of separation and the effect upon their relationship forces them to prematurely accept a marriage commitment. They believe that being married will somehow make their separation easier to bear, because of the reassurance of the permanence and security of their relationship.

But for the young husband and wife, prolonged separation may create more problems than it solves. At an age when any of their peers are sexually and socially active, the married young person is committed to a period of relative sexual abstinence and social isolation.

Contacts with members of the opposite sex may be a source of guilty temptation and resentment towards the absent mate.

The young husband or wife who has had only a brief taste of married life may also find it hard to accept the role identity of belonging to someone else. The young wife may especially find her life lonely, due to the generally more restricted social mobility of married women without their husbands.

There is also the possibility that either or both partners may grow apart from each other in terms of emotional and intellectual maturity. The young man or woman is likely to be at a stage in his personality development where his ambitions, goals, and values are in a state of flux.

The important question is whether or not you and your boyfriend would have married at this time without the pressure of military service. Also, you must evaluate the strength of your relationship and your confidence in each other.

It seems that your boyfriend is largely motivated by the desire to reserve you for himself when he completes his military service. Anxiety over the possible loss of affection of a loved one during a lengthy separation is understandable but not the best grounds for marriage.

His anger at your refusal to agree to marriage suggests a jealous and possessive nature that might be a liability in your marriage.

You might consider getting engaged before he leaves, if you decide that marriage is still a possibility. A trial period of this kind would give you both time to test your feelings away from each other.

None of us are perfect. But to find out how honest you really are, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to Dr. Joyce Brothers in care of The Press and ask for her test, "How Honest Are You?"

YOUR HEALTH:

Doctor takes 'belt' At his weight woe

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

I realized this morning that I was in competition with my vanity. I tried hard to cheat when I stepped on the scales but there was no denying that the additional five pounds acquired on a recent holiday were visible enough to be annoying. I know that this is the penalty for over-indulgence during a mid-winter vacation but it is worth it. I firmly believe that the problem of weight should be shelved for those few days and a rigid diet resumed on return to the city.

I once told my readers about all the excuses that people make for their gain of weight and for their inability to lose it and keep it off. My excuse was flatly denied when a friend said, "Dr. Coleman, you are too fat." I promptly denied it by saying, "It can't be, I weigh exactly the same as I did at college," and promptly fell into his trap. His response was "Then you were too fat at college."

Actually my weight is remarkably good only because I learned long ago that dieting was a full lifetime job. The only pleasant aspect of it is that when I overindulge at a dinner party, I pay back those additional calories during the next day or two.

Now back to my battle with vanity. This morning I began to use a weighted belt which I am told can reduce the waistline by more than two inches if it is worn consistently during all normal daily activities. I have worn it for three hours and it has done nothing yet but to boost my ego because it looks like a black belt Karate prize. My plan is to use it for a few weeks and then report to you on how effectively it narrowed my waistline. At that time I will give exact information about the particular kind of belt I am wearing and the apparent advantages of its use. I will get down to that college level again.

TEEN DATELINE:

Guy hairy about prank

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Walt: For some time my girlfriend has been making snide jokes about my chest hair, especially my chest "blanket" as she calls it. I am a hairy-chested guy but I can't do anything about my heredity.

When she was saying all these things, I thought she was kidding. One day, when she said, "Would you like to be bald chested?" I said, "Sure would!" just in fun. Well, at a party she and two friends shaved my chest.

Now my locks will grow back twice as long if not thicker and I'm in for an awful lot of razzing down from the other guys. I think I ought to do something to pay her back for this, but what? — Samson.

Dear Samson: The girl asked you if you'd like a bald chest. You said yes so she took razor in hand and made your wish come true. The fault is yours for giving her a joking lead and then providing her the occasion.

Action now? Tell her in calm tones that you didn't mean what you said and that you want no encore.

If the other boys kid you in the shower, just tell them, "I wanted to see how you smoothies live. Now I know, it's chilly!" Time will reweave your "blanket" so really there's nothing lost. — Walt.

Dear Ele: We need help. We have a girlfriend who, when we go to parties, starts giggling and whispering about things we did a few years ago. When she does this, our boyfriends look at us nervously. She only does this around boys. She doesn't seem to be aware of what she is doing to make the boys feel out of it. We need a way to tell her nicely before the next party. How? — One for Three.

Dear One: Keep it simple and direct: "Sue, whenever you're in a group, it's bad manners to keep the conversation general so that everyone can take part. It would be bad manners for a boy and girl to start telling private jokes only they could understand. And it's equally wrong for the girls to giggle about yesterday's events without explaining it well enough so the boys understand. So let's not mention 7th grade happenings."

Then, if she forgets, tell her kindly, "Sue, I don't think Bill and Tom knew Mrs. Henderson," and change the subject or explain it. — Ele.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing paths, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen, Michigan

THE TRIP. Peter Fonda stars in a pioneer attempt to simulate the acid trip. The story line is thin, but the photography and special effects keep it exciting, if not overly compelling. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

WRECKING CREW: Dean Martin dresses up agent Matt Helm for a second outing, this time in pursuit of a billion-dollar shipment of hijacked gold. Dean sings spoofs and sexes it up a bit with Elke Sommer, Nancy Kwan and Tina Louise to turn out a film remarkable only for the fact that it doesn't even pretend to be anything more than a rerun of earlier Dino efforts. — Fox Village

HANG 'EM HIGH: Clint Eastwood stars as a former lawman who is unjustly accused of murder and saved in the nick of time from a lynch mob's justice. By the time he evens the score several bloodpaths later, one wishes they had got him the first time. — State-Wayne

SMITH INCREDIBLE JOURNEY—THE BIG MOUTH: Seeing as the last is a typical Jerry Lewis assault, one will have to rely on the first two, which are as yet unknown quantities, for the strength of this triple-decker. — Wayne Drive-in

WILD IN THE STREETS: What happens when the younger generation finally out-numbers those on the other side of 30 and takes over the government. The resulting chaos is anticipated in the production of this film. —Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

THE ILLUSTRATED MAN: Rod Steiger and Claire Bloom take the title roles in this film version of Ray Bradbury's parable of the perpetual wanderer. Director Jack Smight has gone a bit haywire with floating symbols and disjointed time, but the quality of the acting and the original story keep the film at a first-rate interest level. — Quo Vadis Penhouse II

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end

all Westerns . . . and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and intelligently amusing to claim a 'G' rating. — State-Wayne

BUONA SERA, MRS. CAMPBELL: Gina Lollobrigida stars as an Italian temptress who has conned three American bedpartners into support of a child each thinks he has fathered. Careful direction and an excellent cast headed by Phil Silvers, Peter Lawford and Telly Savalas keep it light and funny and mature audiences will find it a pleasant relief from the usual exploited fare. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

JOANNA: A very modern movie about a very contemporary girl who's pretty and adventurous and sleeps with a lot of different men because she likes them. There are no moral judgments here, not even any philosophical comments; just a story about people which is charming and happy simply because it doesn't pretend to be anything else, and bold and exciting because real people are. — Fifth Forum

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. —Campus

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

IN THE HEAT OF THE NIGHT: Heavyweight champ of 1967, this was one of the first efforts to deal seriously with the issue of racial prejudice. It may seem simplistic to 1969 audiences; but fine performances by Rod Steiger as a bigoted cop and Sidney Poitier as a black detective called in to assist him lend power to the somewhat outdated script. — Willow Drive-in a silly sex spoof set against the recent east-coast blackout. In retrospect, this film will probably be regarded as one of the more tragic results of that event. — Algier's Drive-in

WHERE WERE YOU WHEN THE LIGHTS WENT OUT? Doris Day and Robert Morse in

ANGEL IN MY POCKET: Andy Griffith plays his guileless homespun self in this tale of a newly-ordained minister whose first post lands him in the middle of a town feud which threatens to bring down the church. It's a well-worn story; but it's funny and human and one of the few films left for family consumption. (G) — Wayside

DAYTON'S DEVILS—EVE: One part adventure and one part sex turns two mediocre films into a double-feature with something for everyone . . . except the guy who really went to the drive-in to see a movie. — University Drive-in

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape."

Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. — Quo Vadis

HOW TO SAVE A MARRIAGE AND RUIN YOUR LIFE: Dean Martin and Stella Stevens star in this domestic comedy that employs every cliché about men, women and marriage since the three of them got together. Their marriage may be saved but their picture is definitely on the rocks. — Willow Drive-in

The Queen of Hearts will play her part in the Nicolò Marionettes' production of "Alice and Wonderland" to be presented Friday, April 11, at Ypsilanti High School by the Ypsilanti Jaycee Auxiliary. Tickets at 50c each will be on sale tomorrow and Saturday at the Arborland Penney's and Saturday at Grant's in Gault Village. They may also be picked up at the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce or ordered by mail from Mrs. Robert W. Taylor of 119 Linden Ct.

Night life

MARK'S COFFEE HOUSE: The resident film society leaves the classics momentarily to present Samuel Fuller's brutal Korean War drama, "The Steel Helmet." Starring Gene Evans and Robert Horton, the film is a study in human depravity rarely paralleled on the screen. — Mark's Coffee House, 605 E. William, Ann Arbor; shows 8 and 10 p.m.; admission 75c

GOLDEN FALCON: Dancing seven days a week to the big loud rock sounds of the now generation. Accommodations in another room for the quiet drinkers. — Golden Falcon; 312

S. 4th Ave.; must be 21. THE ARK: Emphasis on folk music with big-name entertainment on weekends, amateur sing-outs on Weds. nights and solitary strummers all the time. 50 cents admission covers free refreshments. — The Ark, 1421 Hill

BIMBOS: Original Old Thyme Saloon, replete with waiters in straw hats and red garters, peanut shells on the floor, and the "old thyme" sing-along music of Uncle Pat and the Gaslighters. Seven days a week, music every night for the "eat, drink and be merry" set. — Bimbos, 114 E. Washington; no cover

Our best to you . . .

SEVEN DAYS IN MAY: A treaty with the Soviet Union triggers a military revolt against the President of the United States. Informed of the projected plot, the President labors furiously to stay a revolution that threatens not only this country, but the peace of the entire world. Burt Lancaster and Kirk Douglas take the leads in John Frankenheimer's chilling glimpse of what could happen. Filmed in documentary style with a tight script by veteran screenwriter Rod Serling, this is one of the most powerfully convincing of all the recent attempts to warn man of the threat posed by his own stupidity. — 9 p.m.; Ch. 2

Misses Hayes, Gish save 'Old Lace' special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Arsenic and elderberry wine do not have been something less than a treat. The problems, primarily, were twofold. Joseph Kesselring's comedy was first produced 28 years ago on the Broadway stage. Times, tempos and the public's theatrical tastes have changed and become more sophisticated. Secondly, somebody with a very heavy comedy hand went to work trying to update "Arsenic and Old Lace."

Basically, it was the same story. There was the Victorian household that contained the Misses Abby and Martha Brewster, gentle, loving spinsters whose favorite charity was ending the loneliness of elderly bachelors by means of a glass of their deadly homemade wine. And there was brother Teddy, who believed he was a Roosevelt, the one who charged San Juan Hill.

The comedy idea was that the ladies dispatched the old gentlemen and Teddy disposed of them in the "Panama Canal" he was digging in the cellar. As the play opened, they had deposited their most recent victim in the window seat.

The play was a Broadway smash but only a mildly successful movie some 25 years ago. It might have been a better idea to rerun the movie—after all, Cary Grant was in it.

MAJOR BARBARA: George Bernard Shaw's dramatic confrontation between a hard-nosed businessman and his idealistic daughter remains fully relevant to the problems of today. A social critic far ahead of his own time, Shaw's comments on poverty, crime and civil liberty ring with truth and vitality. — Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $3.

THE ALCHEMIST: Ben

Johnson's scathing satire on the materialistic society is as applicable to 20th century America as it was to Elizabethan England. It is the great triumph of the play that it has survived, not as a period piece, but as sharp and relevant theater. Produced by the Stratford National Theater of Canada under the auspices of the PTP program. — Lydia Mendelssohn Theater, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $6.

DR. FAUSTUS: Christopher Marlowe's story of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for the pleasures of the earthly realm. Produced by the world-famous Royal Shakespeare under the direction of Clifford Williams. — Fisher Theater, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $6.50.

AMPHYTRION 38: Jean Giraudoux' "immortal" farce about the ribald god Jupiter's confrontation with the mating games of mortals. Under the direction of Douglas Seale. — Meadow Brook Theater, University of Oakland, Rochester; through April 13 with shows at 8:15 p.m., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $5.

TV

NET PLAYHOUSE 1: Two critically-acclaimed acts by Thornton Wilder probe the lack of communication which exists between parents and children. British comics Hendra and Ullett take the title roles in "Infancy," while the cast for "Childhood" is headed by Frances Sternhagen and George Rose. — 8 p.m.; Ch. 56

CBC NEWS SPECIAL: Cameras follow a "Voyage to the Sea of Ice" in this exciting documentary on the fisherman of the ice-filled North Atlantic. Plagued by fog and winds, threatened by giant icebergs and caught in ice jams as much as five miles wide, the sailors of the Ashunai and the Nina B. Corkum demonstrate the kind of dedication the sea demands of her followers. — 10 p.m.; in color on Ch. 9

Jazz band To feature Guests

When the University of Michigan Laboratory Jazz Band presents its seventh annual spring concert tonight, it will have guest stars for the first time.

The Iris Bell Adventure, a nationally-known nightclub act, will be featured on the second half of the concert.

The 8 p.m. concert in Hill Auditorium will be open to the public free of charge.

The Adventure is a versatile act which features music from rock as well as jazz and folk idioms. They recently released a recording entitled "Baby, You Got Soul." The group has appeared twice locally on the Channel 7 Morning Show, originating in Detroit, and has been heard on both the Jack Harris Show and the J.P. McCarthy "Focus" Show over WJR radio. They are in the process of negotiating a major recording contract.

The group consists of three members: Iris Bell on piano, Derek Pierson on lights, sound and bass, and Butch Miles on drums, and all sing. They gear their music primarily to the college-oriented audience.

The Lab Band, formerly the Jazz Band, is under the new leadership of Carl J. Alexius, a theory professor in the School of Music. Alexius has had much experience writing for professional dance bands and pop singers such as Barbara Lewis, Dion Jackson and the Capitols.

Art

THE WORLD OF VOLTAIRE: After two years of preparation, the U-M Museum of Art is now hosting a unique exhibition which recreates the society of the Enlightenment and the life of the "one-man Civil Liberties Union" who dominated it. More than 100 objects — many of them never before lent for a museum show — will be included, ranging from portraits of Voltaire's contemporaries to Voltaire's own briefcase. Books, sculptures, engravings and numerous other memorabilia of the period are combined to create a graphic history of 18th century France and its influence on modern thought and culture. — U-M Museum of Art, Alumni Memorial Hall, Ann Arbor; through May 10 with galleries open daily from 9 to 5, Wednesday from 9 to 9 and Sunday from 2 to 5.

TOROS Y TOREROS is both the title and the main subject matter of an exhibition of 44 linocuts by Pablo Picasso currently on display at the London Arts Gallery. The cuts, which also include occasional portraits, still lifes and Bacchanal subjects, were all done during the period 1958-1963, and comprise a graphic history of one of the major innovations in the history of printmaking. All pieces are for sale, and as little as $1,800 can still purchase an original. — London Arts Gallery, 321 Fisher Bldg., Detroit; through April 22 with galleries open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

BLACK ARTISTS' EXHIBITION: The current show at the Detroit Artists' Market scans the full range of uniquely black art in the works of seven of Detroit's foremost painters. Participating artists include James Strickland, Lester Johnson, Robert Murray, James King, Jr., Charles McGee, Harold Neal and James Lee. A featured exhibit will include ceramics by Robert Stull. — Detroit Artists' Market, 1452 Randolph, Detroit; through April 15 with galleries open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Books

REFLECTIONS UPON A SINKING SHIP by Gore Vidal. (Little, Brown; $5.95). The author's considerable talents as a political and literary observer have recently been overshadowed by his tremendous success as a neo-pornographer ("Myra Breckinridge"). This latest collection of essays from Encounter, Times Literary Supplement, Esquire, the New York Review of Books and Partisan Review should help reestablish him as one of the most articulate iconoclasts of our time. Covering a range of subjects—targets from Henry Miller to Nasser's Egypt to the Kennedy image, the book is fit sequel to his 1962 collection, "Rocking the Boat." His tone is more acid and more insistent, and his message is clear: if the boat isn't rocked a bit, it's going to go down. The two persistent themes in Mr. Vidal's essays are sex and so-called democracy. Both are viewed as pathological outgrowths of the American dream. He lays the sexual iniquities of our society to the first principles of our Puritan forebears who came to this country "not because they were persecuted for their religious beliefs, but because they were forbidden to persecute others for their beliefs." Even as social intolerance has persisted, so too, political inequalities are tied to the beliefs in which the country is grounded. "The

A Portuguese shows his appreciation of a pretty girl by pulling his ear. In Italy, however, ear tugging is a deliberate insult.

Holy Clan," he attacks the Kennedys and through them the qualities destined to succeed in American politics: "money, image and family." "Every four years," he says, "the country will be up for sale, and the richest man or family will buy it." Brutal, yes. But just perhaps on the fringe of truth. The book will hardly challenge the sales of "Myra," but it is a better book and much better Vidal.

Special

I VITELLONI: A 1953 effort by Federico Fellini, this careful satire focuses on a group of small town boys with no greater ambitions than to continue sponging off their parents and spend their hours dreaming about a movie conquest. On a double bill with an adaptation of Poe's "The Tell Tale Heart." — U-M Architecture Auditorium, Ann Arbor; shows at 7 and 9:05 p.m.; admission 75c

Detroit

RED GARTER: Detroit branch of the great chain that marks a favorite night-spot in most of the major cities. Old-time music of banjos, musical saws and the honkiest piano around. Peanuts and pretzels with beer and cocktails from 8 p.m. to 2 a.m. nightly. — 1246 Library behind Hudson's; $1 cover on Friday and Saturday night.

POISON APPLE: Ingenious decor creating a little bit of Never-Never-Land in little old Detroit. Originally slated to include a seething caldron of forbidden fruit, the poison apple in question now refers to a wild drink that will knock you on your ear. But do try to catch a bit of the entertainment — mostly folksy and rather good — before hand. — Poison Apple, 13100 E. Jefferson, Detroit; cover $1 on weekdays, $1.50 on Saturday.

PIER ONE: Weekday afternoons it's just another American restaurant, but after five it's a dionysian festival with Greek dinners served in the Dolphin Room until 1 a.m., and entertainment in the Mediterranean Room provided by the Athenian Quintet and an authentic belly dancer. — 506 Shelby, Detroit; 961-6108 for reservations

McDivitt To visit Ann Arbor

Col. James McDivitt, veteran commander of three space flights and recently returned from the Apollo 9 adventure, will visit Ann Arbor April 18.

His return to the town where he was graduated from the University of Michigan was announced by U.S. Rep. Marvin L. Esch (R-Ann Arbor) and U-M President Robben Fleming.

Esch said McDivitt will discuss the scientific advances made in the Apollo flight and the application of space flight to the development of natural resources on earth.

The congressman said no specific schedule has been set but that there would be a public meeting as well as a private briefing for the scientific community.

Esch said details of the visit will be announced as soon as they are coordinated with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and U-M.

There are about 14,000 miles of highway in Vermont.

Dancers To salute Dr. King

Poetry, song, and dance at the University of Michigan will commemorate the life of Martin Luther King, Jr., on the first anniversary of his death tomorrow.

A commemoration service will begin at 11 a.m. in the University of Michigan's Hill Auditorium.

The Philip Stamps Dance Theatre then will present a Liberian welcome dance called the "Funga." Stamps, of the Eastern Michigan University dance department faculty, will have eight other dancers in his company, all but one from the U-M.

Legal Notices

Legal Notices must be received in our bookkeeping department 48 hours prior to desired publication dates.

WASHTENAW COUNTY ROAD COMMISSION

555 North Zeeb Road

Ann Arbor, Michigan

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

WHEREAS, this Board has received a resolution duly adopted by the Augustus Township Board on January 20, 1969, petitioning the Washtenaw County Road Commission to create a Special Assessment District to construct a pavement on Burton Road from the south line of Bemis Road to about seven hundred (700) feet south of the centerline of Willow Road pursuant to Act No. 55 of Public Acts of 1968 as an amendment to Act 246 of Public Acts of 1931; and

WHEREAS, said resolution is in accordance with the law and is in full compliance with the requirements that there be at least one building for every 300 lineal feet along the portion of highway proposed to be constructed and that the improvements proposed for said resolution are necessary for the benefit of the public and for the convenience and benefit of the public welfare;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Board of County Road Commissioners for the County of Washtenaw have made the first order of determination stating that the proposed improvements proposed for said resolution duly adopted by the Augustus Township Board are necessary, and have determined the several parcels of land proposed to be assessed on account of such improvements as follows: All land fronting on said Burton Road from the south line of Bemis Road to a point 700 feet south of the centerline of Willow Road in Sections 1, 2, 11, 12, 13, 14, 23, 24, 25 and 26 of Augustus Township, Washtenaw County, Michigan.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that a public hearing will be held at the Augustus Township Hall, 8021 Talladega Road, Willis, Michigan on Wednesday the 16th day of April, 1969 at 8:00 p.m. (E.S.T.) at which time and place all parties or persons interested shall be given an opportunity to present their objections, if any, to the proposed improvement and the formation of "Special Assessment District No. 69-1," and the apportionment of benefits thereto.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that this notice be posted in five (5) or more public places in the Township of Augustus and that such notice be printed in a newspaper published and circulated in said County of Washtenaw once each week for two (2) successive weeks.

Given by order of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Washtenaw at Ann Arbor, Michigan on the 18th day of March, 1969.

Roll call vote as follows:

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

By state senate:

Transplant legal procedures approved

LANSGING (AP) — A Uniform Anatomical Gift Act — setting up procedures by which people may help others live longer — passed the Michigan Senate Wednesday and moved to the House.

The bill had been the subject of an emotion-filled Senate committee hearing at which kidney transplant recipient Charles Mundy, 22, told of the precious extension of life afforded patients who get transplants.

Passed 30-0, the bill provides that a person of sound mind, 18 years of age or older, may offer all or part of his body for use in transplants after his death. A donor would sign an agreement, witnessed by two persons, authorizing the gift.

A deceased person's spouse, immediate family or other authorized individual also would be allowed to offer donations.

Under the bill, a person who "acts in good faith" would not be liable for damages in any court action connected with transplants. Some lawyers had objected to the section, saying it would exempt from punishment any doctor who operated under questionable circumstances.

The Senate defeated a bill that would mandate the governor and other state officials to meet for discussion of "crime and social disorder" in the state.

Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, called for reconsideration of the 17-12 vote by which the Senate turned down a State Internal Security Council. That vote was set for April 18.

Kuhn cited the "two tragic riots in Detroit in 1943 and 1967," and violence that claimed the life of a young Detroit policeman last weekend. "There is a serious and great need for this type of council," Kuhn contended.

"This is a useless bill," retorted Sen. Harry Demaso, R-Battle Creek. "I don't think the Legislature has any business telling the executive council branch when they must meet."

The bill called for the governor to meet weekly with the lieutenant governor, attorney general, State Police director and chief of the State Military Affairs Department.

The Senate postponed final action on a measure aimed at keeping convicted felons off police forces.

The proposal, offered by Kuhn, would amend the Michigan Law Enforcement Officers' Training Council Act.

Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, said he thought sponsors had picked the wrong act to amend. "You cannot amend this act to create a mandatory standard," said Brown, a lawyer.

Also passed by the Senate and sent to the House were bills to:

—Allow husbands and wives to make written agreements waiving their rights to each other's estates. Under the bill, a widow who wanted to leave her estate to her children could enter a second marriage and be sure her property would stay in her own family, it was explained.
